NEW YORK CITY

AS WE MAKE TO ORDER

every garment illustrated in this catalogue, our customers, when ordering a suit, may select the jacket of one style and skirt of another.

See page 4 for particulars.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS OR BRANCHES.

THE PRICES IN THIS CATALOGUE

include the cost of all materials, linings, trimmings and making—the garment finished and ready to wear. Our garments made to order cost less than other houses ask for ready-mades.

We also prepay express charges on all garments ordered from this catalogue to any part of the United States.

Thirty-Sixth Season. | SUMMER, 1906 | Established 1888.

Why We Can Guarantee to Fit You.

THE making of perfect-fitting garments for women from measurements sent by mail is an idea which originated with this Company over 17 years ago. Previous to that time such a plan was thought impossible, but since 1888 over 400,000 discriminating women, many of whom were so difficult to fit that they could not be suited elsewhere, have found in our system the solution of all their dress-making troubles. What we have done for them we certainly can do for you.

Your figure is just a little different from that of any other woman in the world. The garment which fits you perfectly will not fit your neighbor, and the garment which fits your neighbor will not fit you. We can fit both of you because we make each garment to order, according to individual measurements.

The experience we have gained during the past 17 years in fitting thousands of women by mail makes us positive that we can give you entire satisfaction—so positive that we make this offer: "We guarantee to fit you; if we fail to do so we will refund your money."

In other words, we will make you any garment illustrated in this catalogue just as you want it, ship it to you within ten days, and allow you to try it on in your own home, where it can be carefully examined by yourself and your friends. If we fail to fit you or give you entire satisfaction, the money you paid us for it will be returned. There will be no question or quibble about it; if you say the garment does not fit you, we will take your word for it and return your money.

OUR GUARANTEE.

We guarantee to fit you and give you entire satisfaction; if we fail to do so, you may return the garment promptly and in good condition, and we will refund your money; or we will make you another garment, whichever you prefer.

Our business could not have increased to its present enormous proportions were it not that we have always given our customers full value for their money, entirely relieving them of all the annoyances which usually attend the purchase of a garment, and by honest methods and a liberal policy won the confidence of our patrons. This is plainly manifested by the fact that they favor us with their orders year after year.

It is not the policy of our Company to boast that we are the only establishment making first-class, stylish garments. We know that there are many other tailors who use good materials, employ capable workmen, and make attractive suits and cloaks. But we do claim that no other establishment is making or can make the high-class made-to-order garments we are turning out every day for our customers at such low prices, quality and workmanship considered.

We are able to make our prices remarkably low because we buy our materials, linings, trimmings, etc., in enormous quantities, which enables us to obtain special discounts, and because we save agents' commissions by selling direct to the wearer. All the garments shown in this catalogue are made to order by us, and we sell them to you at the same prices we would charge your local dealer, who would, of course, retail them at a big profit. In buying from us you get them at manufacturers' prices and save the profit that would otherwise go to the retailer or agent.

Every garment illustrated in this catalogue is made to order—not ready-made. This is evident from the fact that we allow you to make your own selections from our 187 styles and 400 materials, also giving you the privilege, when ordering a suit, of combining the features of different styles, as is fully explained on page 4, and we are always glad to have our customers specify the kind and color of lining they wish. All this proves that we make to order every garment shown in this catalogue.

Your satisfaction is our aim, whether you order our cheapest skirt or highest price suit. The secret of our success is the careful attention we give every detail, no matter how large or how small the order.

Nothing would please us more than to have you follow your order from the fabric rooms, through the cutting and tailoring rooms, to the final inspection department. You would be surprised to see how carefully the expert not only watches every little detail of his department, but scans the work already done, making careless work impossible.

It is our careful attention to small things that has much to do with giving the garment that tailor-made air —that indefinable something called "style." With style you get also perfection of fit and reliable materials.

It is only after you have sent us your first order that you will appreciate the convenience of being able, while in your own home, to select one of our desirable materials and have it made up becomingly in a New York style.

Our former patrons are thoroughly familiar with our methods, but to those who have never dealt with us, a trial of our original system will prove its efficiency.

FACTS OF IMPORTANCE

Read before ordering, as you may find the question you want to ask fully answered here.

1. THE NATIONAL CLOAK AND SUIT COMPANY is a corporation of the State of New York, with a paid-in capital of one million dollars. The Company was established in 1888, and during the past 17 years has earned a substantial reputation for reliability, honesty and promptness that has retained old patrons and brought thousands of new ones every season, so that to-day we have customers in every city and town in the United States. Any bank or express company can give you information as to our standing.

2. ORDERS RECEIVED BY MAIL ONLY. As we conduct a mail order business, we receive orders by mail only. Under our original and exclusive plan, the facilities of our enormous establishment are brought to your door. The United States Mail hurries your order to us, we fill it without delay, and the express company makes speedy delivery, no matter where you live.

3. GARMENTS MADE TO ORDER. Every garment illustrated in this catalogue is made especially to order to suit the requirements of the person for whom it is intended. In having a suit, skirt or coat made to order by us, you are sure to obtain something that is exclusive and displays your own taste. When you buy a garment of this kind ready-made, you are likely to find others wearing exact duplicates of it.

4. HOW TO ORDER. FIRST: Make your selections from the styles shown in this catalogue. SECOND: Choose the material from any of the samples we send you. THIRD: Have your measurements taken according to our instructions on the order blank in the back of this catalogue. FOURTH: Carefully fill out the order blank, enclose your remittance and mail it to us.

5. HOW TO TAKE MEASUREMENTS. Directions for taking measurements are clearly given on the order blanks in the back of this catalogue, and these are so simple that anyone in your own home following them carefully can take your measurements correctly. Read both front and back of the order blank, and be guided by our instructions. Use an accurate tape measure.

6. HOW TO FIND THE COST OF A GARMENT. To distinguish the value of our materials, we have graded them according to quality. Our samples are labeled Quality A, B, C, D, E, F, G and H, the lowest grade being marked Quality A. We have labeled our silk samples X and Y to indicate our good and best qualities, respectively. Our wash goods are labeled O, OO and OOO.

Under the description of each garment are given prices for making it to order from these various grades of material. For instance: should you wish a suit made like style No. 703 from any of our fabrics labeled Quality A, the price would be $17.50; if made from Quality B material, the price would be $18.75, and so on up to $26.50 for the garment if made from Quality G material.

7. HOW TO SEND MONEY. Remit either by Post Office Money Order, Express Money Order, New York Bank Draft or Certified Check, payable to "NATIONAL CLOAK & SUIT COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY." We recommend either Post Office Money Orders or Express Money Orders, as they are absolutely safe and a convenient way to send money; moreover, in case of loss in the mails, you are protected.

Do not send a check, as it may cause delay, but if most convenient for you to send a check, be sure to have it certified and add ten cents to the amount to cover cost of collection. Drafts or checks not drawn payable to our order should be endorsed "Payable to NATIONAL CLOAK & SUIT COMPANY," and the endorsement signed by the person to whose order it was drawn. Sight Drafts will not be accepted.

It is not safe to send cash; but if you cannot remit in any other way, enclose the money in a strong envelope, seal it securely and be sure to have it registered.

Always send an amount sufficient to cover the cost of your order; better send too much than too little. All sums in excess of your purchase will be promptly refunded after your order is filled.

8. OUR TERMS. Most of our customers prefer to send the full amount with the order, because we then prepay the express charges on garments ordered from this catalogue to any part of the United States.

If you wish garments sent C. O. D., we require a deposit of at least one-third, in which case they will be sent C. O. D. for the balance, but on such shipments the customer must pay the expressage and also pay the Express Company's charge for sending the money to us. We will not ship C. O. D. without the required deposit.

All orders for points outside of the United States must be fully paid for in advance.

We can accept orders only on these terms.

We do a strictly cash business and carry no charge accounts.

9. ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF ORDERS. Every order for a garment selected from this catalogue will be acknowledged by postal card the day it reaches us. If you do not receive our card within a reasonable time please notify us. Be sure to state the exact date on which you sent the order, the amount enclosed, and whether your remittance was in the form of a Post Office Money Order, Express Order or Bank Draft.

10. FILLING OF ORDERS. Notwithstanding we cut and make every garment shown in this catalogue in accordance with the individual measurements and instructions of the customer, orders are usually filled within a week or ten days. You can help us fill your order promptly if you will make two selections of material, so that if the first should be sold out, we can make the garment from your second choice. Do not make a second selection of material unless you are willing that we should use it if necessary. We always use the first selection if we have the material when the order reaches us.

We urge you to carefully examine your order before mailing it, to make sure that the measurements are accurate and that the order is complete in every detail. Be sure to read carefully the description of the garment you order.

In our endeavor to fill orders in one week, we usually start to make the garment the same day the order is received; therefore, we cannot always comply with requests sent later to have changes made.

11. EXPRESS CHARGES PREPAID. We will ship any garment ordered from this catalogue to any express office in the United States and prepay the express charges, provided the full amount is sent with the order.

12. MATERIALS. We have the largest stock in New York of the most desirable imported and domestic materials. All of our cloth fabrics are thoroughly sponged and shrunk, and none of our materials should be confused with shoddy goods. We do not handle anything we cannot recommend.

We do not carry white mohairs, serges, broadcloths or any other white woolen goods. We have a full line of white linen and cotton fabrics for wash suits.

We can furnish Taffeta in black and all fashionable colors; moire and peau de soie in black only.

We cannot undertake to make garments from materials furnished by customers.

13. SPECIAL SAMPLES. As our stock includes over 400 different materials, it is impracticable for us to send samples of the entire line; but if you do not find among those sent just what you wish, we will be glad to send others on request, if you will specify exactly what you desire.

14. TRIMMINGS. So much depends upon the application of the proper trimmings, that we have spared no effort in procuring a large assortment of the newest braids, prettiest buttons, etc., to be used on our garments in a manner to produce the most harmonious effects.

15. JACKET LININGS. We make some of our jackets with and others without a lining. Many of them are described as being lined with Super-finished Sateen—a strong and thoroughly reliable lining, but not as fine as silk or satin. The additional charges for Good Quality Satin, Taffeta Silk, or our Best Satin, which is Skinner's, are stated at the end of each description of Tailor-made Suits and Jackets.

Most of our customers prefer a silk or satin lining, the extra expense being very small, and as either of these linings adds much to the appearance of a garment, we strongly recommend them.

16. WORKMANSHIP. It is in the designing, cutting and making that real style and true fashion lines are brought out. We employ none but the most skillful cutters and tailors, and, therefore, our workmanship cannot be excelled. There is a style about our costumes which at once distinguishes them as New York productions.

A detail of prime importance is the superior quality of canvas used in our coats, which prevents them from breaking down and losing their shape; we also make our tight-fitting jackets with bust forms of fine quality haircloth to give them a shape which is both graceful and durable. The pressing, which means so much to the general appearance of the finished garment, is done by men of long experience, under the most approved methods.

It is our careful attention to these details which makes our garments so superior to others.

17. EXTRA SIZE GARMENTS. There will be an extra charge of 10 per cent. on garments ordered with a bust measure of 42 inches or more, on account of the extra amount of material required. If you order a separate jacket, or coat, the 10 per cent. should of course be calculated on the cost of the jacket only, but if you order a suit, the 10 per cent. must be figured on the price of the entire suit, because when your bust measure calls for a larger jacket, it is necessary to make the skirt extra large in proportion.

18. EXTRA LONG JACKETS. For the prices quoted, the jackets shown in our catalogue can be made any length up to that mentioned in the description. If a jacket is wanted longer than stated in its description, there will be a reasonable charge for the extra length desired, as per schedule below:

If jacket is to be made of Quality	A	cloth	add	15	cents	for each additional inch desired.

"	B	"	"	17	"	"	"
"	C	"	"	20	"	"	"
"	D	"	"	22	"	"	"
"	E	"	"	25	"	"	"
"	F	"	"	27	"	"	"
"	G	"	"	30	"	"	"
"	H	"	"	33	"	"	"

19. PRICES. Although our styles and materials are better than ever before, and the quality of our workmanship has been improved even over our previous high standard, we have nevertheless made our prices extremely low.

We are able to do this because we employ no agents and maintain no branches or retail stores, but we give our customers the benefit of our manufacturing prices.

The cost of the garments illustrated in this catalogue is the same to all, and even though a customer live in California, the garment will cost her no more than if she lived in New York, because we prepay the express charges to any part of the United States.

The prices in this catalogue include the cost of all materials, linings, trimmings and making—the garment finished and ready to wear.

Our prices are so very reasonable we can allow no reductions on account of the number of garments ordered.

20. PROPER LENGTH FOR SKIRTS. The prevailing fashion in New York calls for a skirt length all around of from 1 to 1½ inches from the ground.

21. DROP SKIRTS. The present fashion is to wear a drop skirt rather than to have the skirt lined, therefore we make all our skirts without lining. Our prices do not include drop skirts, but we will make them to order. For descriptions and prices, see page 60.

22. BLACK AND MOURNING GARMENTS. In ordering a black garment, it is always advisable to mention whether it is to be lined and trimmed with black or not. When ordering a garment for mourning or second mourning wear, kindly state this fact distinctly, so that we may use the proper linings and trimmings.

23. NO PATTERNS. We do not sell patterns of any of our styles, and as they are exclusively our own designs, they are not procurable elsewhere.

24. NO MILLINERY—NO SPECIAL STYLES. We do not keep millinery, nor do we care to make any styles except such as are shown by us.

25. NO CHILDREN'S SUITS. We do not make children's suits, nor have we a special catalogue of Misses' garments, but we will make any of our styles in Misses' sizes, for the prices quoted in this catalogue, no reduction being allowed.

26. CORRESPONDENCE. All letters are answered by women of experience in matters of dress, and you can write us fully with the assurance that your communications will be handled by these experts who can appreciate your requirements. Do not hesitate to ask for any information in reference to our garments or methods which is not given in this catalogue.

Always date your letters and write the names of your Post Office, County and State distinctly.

27. ALWAYS SIGN YOUR NAME THE SAME WAY. It is confusing to receive letters from the same person sometimes signed "Mrs. Wm. T. Smith," again "Ella M. Smith," and again "Mrs. E. M. Smith." Be careful to use the prefix "Miss" or "Mrs." in every instance, and always sign your full name.

28. IF YOU CHANGE YOUR ADDRESS while corresponding with us, please inform us promptly, mentioning both your old and new addresses.

29. NO COMMISSIONS, AGENTS OR BRANCHES. We do not employ agents, nor allow commissions or discounts. When you buy from a house employing agents, you pay an extra price in order to cover their commissions. We have no branches and have absolutely no connection with any other establishment.

Anyone claiming to represent us is endeavoring to secure business on a fraudulent basis. Send your order direct to us.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ORDERING.

1st. HOW TO SELECT A STYLE. Select from this catalogue the style of garment you wish made. If you desire a suit, you are not compelled to take the jacket and skirt of the same style, but as explained at the bottom of this page, you have the privilege of selecting the jacket of one style and the skirt of another. Should you desire a skirt only, you are not confined to the separate skirts illustrated on pages 47 to 49, but you may select a skirt of any of the suit styles and we will make it separately. We cannot combine any of the garments illustrated in this catalogue with those shown in any other catalogue.

2nd. HOW TO SELECT MATERIAL. Pick out the material you like best, note its quality as printed on the pin-ticket attached, and you can ascertain the price of your garment when made of that quality by referring to the figures under its description. If you do not find just what you desire among the samples sent, we will be glad to mail you an additional assortment on receipt of your request. As we carry over 400 different materials in stock, we are sure we can give you exactly what you wish.

3rd. HOW TO TAKE MEASUREMENTS. Turn to the back of the catalogue, where you will find our order blank and measurement chart. The instructions printed thereon tell you exactly how your measurements are to be taken. These instructions should be carefully read by you, as well as by the person who is to take your measurements. Remember, the measurements should be taken from your figure and not from an old garment. Use an accurate tape measure and do not allow for seams. Fill in both sides of the order blank very carefully. If you have any special instructions to give us as to how you want your garment made or trimmed, or if there is any peculiarity about your figure, write us fully on a separate sheet to accompany the order. Do not fail to pin or sew your selections of material securely in the spaces provided.

4th. HOW TO SEND MONEY. Remit either by Post Office Money Order, Express Money Order, or New York Bank Draft, payable to "NATIONAL CLOAK & SUIT COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY." Do not send cash; but, if you cannot remit in any other way, enclose the money with your order in a strong envelope, seal it securely, and be sure to have it registered.

5th. OUR TERMS. Most of our customers prefer to send the full amount with the order, because we then prepay the express charges on garments shown in this catalogue to any part of the United States. If you wish garments sent C. O. D., we require a deposit of at least one-third, in which case the garments will be sent C. O. D. for the balance, but on such shipments the customer must pay the expressage and also pay the express company's charge for sending the money to us. We will not ship C. O. D. without the required deposit. All orders for points outside of the United States must be fully paid for in advance.

NOTE.—As soon as your order reaches us, we will acknowledge its receipt. If your instructions are complete, we will start to make your garment the day the order is received. Please understand, therefore, that we cannot always comply with requests sent later to have changes made.

Be sure to read your order very carefully before mailing it.

You may select the Jacket of one of our styles and the Skirt of another.

In ordering a costume, you may combine the features of any of the styles shown in this catalogue. By this we mean, that if you are pleased with the jacket of one style, but prefer the skirt of another, we will make the suit exactly as you wish, combining the designs selected. It is because we make everything shown in this catalogue to order that we can extend this unusual privilege to our customers.

The price of each jacket and skirt illustrated in this catalogue is given separately under its description, and you can easily ascertain the cost of a suit consisting of the jacket of one style and the skirt of another, by adding the price of the jacket desired to that of the skirt you wish, in the same quality of material.

For example: if you wish a suit made of quality A material, to consist of a jacket like style No. 701 with a skirt like style No. 712, you can ascertain the price of the suit by adding the cost of the jacket and skirt as follows:

Jacket Style No. 701, Quality A	$11.00
Skirt Style No. 712, Quality A	6.00
Price of Suit complete	$17.00

Should you wish a suit in quality B material, with a waist like style No. 791 and the skirt of style No. 785, the price would be figured as follows:

Waist Style No. 791, Quality B	$5.00
Skirt Style No. 785, Quality B	7.00
Price of Suit complete	$12.00

The prices of all suits consisting of a jacket or waist of one style and a skirt of another style must be figured according to these instructions.

SLEEVES Furthermore, if you do not like the sleeve shown on the jacket desired, you may select that of any other coat in this catalogue. In some cases there will be a small additional charge for making a change of this kind. Prices will be quoted if you will inform us of the style of garment and sleeve you wish combined, mentioning the quality of cloth from which you desire it made.

We cannot combine any of the garments illustrated in this catalogue with those shown in any other catalogue.

STYLE 701
($17.50 UP)

701.—A Tuxedo vest gives pleasing variation to this attractive Eton suit, which in every essential displays perfected skill.

The Eton is double-breasted, with semi-fitted fronts and back, showing an extension at the lower edge. The elbow sleeves are finished with flare cuffs, which with the single-breasted Tuxedo vest and Pompadour collar, may be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, decorated with garniture. If desired, long sleeves may be selected. A removable belt of the material is supplied.

The Skirt is circular, with inverted plaits disposed at the center. Three folds of the material trim the lower edge.

G "	27.50	15.00	14.75

STYLE 702
($15.00 UP)

702.—The square cut of the new "Pony" jackets is especially becoming to women of slender proportions, and those inclined to be stout should not affect these styles.

The Jacket, which can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back for the prices quoted, is a distinct "Pony" design. Straps of the material afford the decoration at the back and in front, where the closing is in single-breasted style. A vest effect is obtained with fancy garniture, and the shawl collar is trimmed with stitching and buttons. Long sleeves may be had, if desired.

The Skirt is circular, with inverted plaits at the center of the front below an arrangement of straps of the material.

STYLE 703
($17.50 UP)

703.—The charming Eton modes are invulnerable to fashion's whimsical changes, and many adaptations of the more orthodox creations are making their appearance.

The Eton is double-breasted with half-fitted back and front. The revers may be faced with silk, satin or moiré in black, white or any preferred color ornamented with fancy garniture, so that the jacket can be worn open. The short sleeves are trimmed with braid and soutache and a lace frill. Long sleeves may be had, if desired. A detachable belt of the material decorated with buttons is included.

The Skirt, which is of the circular shaping, displays an inverted plait in front, and braid affords the adornment.

Add $1.25 to the above prices if satin lining is desired in any of these Jackets.
Add $2.25 to the above prices if taffeta silk or Skinner's satin lining is desired in any of these Jackets.
We will make any of these Jackets and Skirts separately; see prices given under each description.

STYLE 704

704.—Words inadequately describe the charms of this beautiful Eton suit, and for calling and fashionable wear it will satisfy the most critical.

The Eton is semi-fitted in front and back, and the closing is made at the center where fancy garniture is utilized to suggest a vest. A striking idea is expressed in the low, rounding outline of the front and back which frames, in Tuxedo effect, a yoke elaborated with tucks. Braid adorns the collar and Cavalier cuffs to accord with the back and front of the jacket. Long sleeves may be had, if desired, and the belt is detachable.

The Skirt is circular with clusters of pin-tucks, and a tapering box-plait is disposed at the center.

STYLE 705

705.—Although women of fleshy proportions are primarily excluded from adopting "Pony" styles, yet the favor accorded these European designs is unlimited. Constructed on these lines is this chic promenade suit.

The Jacket is semi-fitted at the back and front where the closing is made at the center. The vest effect is of garniture, which also decorates the collar that may be selected in silk, satin, broadcloth or moiré. The sleeves are tucked above the elbow cuffs, but long sleeves may be substituted. Braid elaborates the jacket, which can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back for the prices quoted.

The Skirt is circular and has an inverted plait at the center. Braid corresponding with that employed on the Jacket decorates it.

STYLE 706

706.—The graceful application of braid on this suit excites admiration at a glance, and its youthful atmosphere will win for it a prominent place in the fashionable world.

The Eton is single-breasted and shaped with seams that extend to the shoulders in front; the back is semi-fitted. Garniture trims the vest, which blouses in front and back, and can be made of silk, satin or broadcloth, in black, white, or any preferred color. Trimming ornaments the flatly applied collar, and braid of another width decorates the lower edge of the jacket, the cuffs and the neck. Long sleeves may be selected if desired. A belt of the material is furnished.

The Skirt, which is of the circular type, displays a double box-plait at the front, and braid is used for the trimming.

STYLE 707

707.—The trim Eton costumes are generally popular, because the majority of women find them rightly suited to their figures.

The Eton exhibits semi-fitted fronts and back, and a vest is outlined at the center where the closing is made. Folds of the material decorate the back and front, and tucks vary the short sleeves, for which long sleeves may be substituted. The shawl collar and Directoire cuffs may be of silk, satin, broadcloth or moiré in black, white or any preferred color, decorated with fancy braid. Braid also elaborates the front of the jacket. The belt is removable.

The Skirt is circular, with an inverted plait at the center. Braid is used for decoration.

STYLE 708
($17.00 UP)

708.—The discernible merits of the artistic "Pony" fashions are appreciated by slender women to whom they are very becoming.

The Jacket, in distinct "Pony" style, is half-fitting all around, and it can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back for the prices quoted. Straps of the material, and buttons add style to the mode. The square collar and elbow cuffs may be made of silk, satin, broadcloth or moiré in black, white or any preferred color, trimmed with garniture similar to that used to simulate the vest. Long sleeves may be had, if desired.

The Skirt belongs to the circular constructions, and plaits arranged in clusters remove the fulness at the front and on both sides.

STYLE 709
($16.00 UP)

709.—Tucks stitched to resemble plaits are the important features of this handsome suit, which is adapted to fashionable service.

The Blouse displays double-breasted fronts that are shaped low to accommodate a long fancifully notched collar, which, with the exaggerated elbow cuffs, may be made of silk, satin, moiré or broadcloth in black, white or any preferred color trimmed with fancy garniture. Tucks give variation to the design, which is completed with a belt. The choice of long sleeves is offered in place of the short ones shown in the illustration.

The Skirt is circular with two box-plaits in front, and straps of the material afford the decoration around the bottom.

STYLE 710
($17.00 UP)

710.—This original design of the youthful Eton modes is a fitting exponent of prevailing styles.

The Eton is single-breasted, and the half-fitting fronts and back are decorated with tucks. If preferred, long sleeves may replace the tucked elbow sleeves, which are complete with deep cuffs in tab outline, under which fancy garniture is employed as trimming to correspond with the fronts where tabs and garniture produce an elaborate effect. The vest is simulated with garniture, and braid and diminutive buttons ornament the flat collar.

The Skirt is uniquely shaped with circular sides, the front being arranged in double box-plaits as illustrated. Two straps of the material, finished with buttons, decorate it.

STYLE 711
($10.00 UP)

711.—Unostentatious effects are always popular with those of refined tastes, and this suit partakes of elegance in its very simplicity.

The Jacket exhibits the favorite half loose-fitting fronts, and the tight-fitting back displays the regulation coat lap and plaits. For the prices quoted, it can be made in any length up to 23 inches in back. The closing is effected in double-breasted fashion with buttons and buttonholes, and a mannish notched collar gives a distinctive style to the neck. The sleeves are regularly shaped with simulated cuffs.

The Skirt is adjusted with seven gores in side-plaited effect, and tabs of the material are applied, as illustrated, for trimming.

STYLE 712
($17.00 UP)

712.—The symmetrical lines of this beautiful suit place it at once above the mediocre, and the jaunty elbow sleeves show its adherence to the rulings of La Mode.

The Eton is single-breasted with half-fitting front and back, and has a yoke facing below which corded tucks appear. Straps of the material trim the fronts, extending around the neck and lower edge. A vest is simulated with garniture and the elbow cuffs may be faced with silk or satin in black, white or any preferred color and trimmed to accord with it. Long sleeves may be substituted. A belt of the material with a buckle is supplied.

The Skirt is circular with four box-plaits in front. Corded tucks en bayadere are introduced to correspond with the treatment of the jacket.

STYLE 713

713.—This charming design displays its smartness in every detail, and is one of our most popular leaders for general wear.

The Eton is single-breasted with front and back half-fitting, and folds of the material provide the embellishment, together with fancy buttons. A vest effect of garniture is accommodated in front, and the flat shawl collar and flare elbow cuffs may be faced with silk, satin, or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color and ornamented with novelty braid. The elbow sleeves are tucked, and long sleeves may be substituted, if desired.

The Skirt is circular, with inverted plaits in front. Folds of the material are used to give a triple flounce effect.

STYLE 714

714.—The "Pony" styles are a decided innovation this season, and these chic, girlish models are best adapted for slender figures.

The Jacket, which is of the "Pony" design, is semi-fitted in back and front, where the closing is made. It can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back for the prices quoted. The trimming around the neck and down the front where a vest is simulated may be of silk, satin, broadcloth or moiré in black, white or any preferred color, ornamented with garniture, and the cuffs correspond. Tailor braid with soutache supplies the final touches. Long sleeves may be had, if desired.

STYLE 715

715.—This stylish representative of metropolitan fashions bears the stamp of exclusiveness in its make-up in every essential.

The Eton is double-breasted and the semi-fitted fronts and back are tucked. The full length sleeves are tucked above the fanciful cuffs, which, with the odd collar and front facings, may be of silk, satin or broadcloth in black, white or any preferred color, ornamented with fancy braid. Elbow sleeves may be adopted, if desired.

The Skirt is of the popular circular order, and the front is box-plaited in clusters of four plaits at each side, with straps of the material used as a decorative finish around the bottom, as pictured.

STYLE 716
($17.00 UP)

716.—The season has brought a variety of new models, but among them all, nothing is better than a costume such as is here illustrated with a jaunty short coat and a circular skirt.

The Eton, which is single-breasted, is semi-fitted at the back, and also in front. Braid trims the jacket, appearing also as the decoration of the elbow cuffs. Long sleeves may be chosen, if preferred. The removable belt is elaborated with braid.

The Skirt is circular in outline, and has an inverted plait at the center with a box-plait at each side. It is trimmed with braid as pictured.

STYLE 717

717.—The woman of slender proportions will be gratified with the appropriateness and air of quiet elegance of this youthfully constructed "Pony" suit.

The Jacket follows the popular straight-cut "Pony" shaping, and for the prices quoted, it can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back. Straps of the material give a handsome decoration; the flare cuffs are similarly ornamented. The turnover collar and vest may be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, relieved with garniture.

718.—This suit includes a skirt of the gored classification, and will prove becoming to the majority of figures.

The Eton fits smoothly, fastening at the center in single-breasted fashion with a visible button closing. Spade-shaped fronts are introduced, and stitching is adopted to give the effect of cuffs as a completion for the regulation coat sleeves. The notched collar may be selected in silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, and is decorated with fancy braid.

The Skirt consists of seven tapering gores, with three tabs of the material and buttons applied at each side of the front gore where plaits are arranged at the lower edge.

STYLE 719

719.—Small Vandykes of braid give exceeding charm to this Eton suit, and in other details does it enlist admiration.

The Eton is double-breasted, with half loose-fitting back and front. Lapped seams, with stitched straps of the material, headed with braid, trim the back, front and sleeves, which may be made elbow length, if preferred. The Puritan cuffs are decorated with garniture to match the shawl collar, which may be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color. A removable belt is supplied.

The Skirt is of circular construction, with inverted plaits in front, stitched in place. A strap of the same cloth trims the lower edge.

720.—For such occasions as demand an unobtrusive attire this costume will give general satisfaction.

The Jacket has single-breasted half loose-fitting fronts that close with a fly, while the back is made tight-fitting. Lapped seams vary the plainness of the back and front. Oblique openings to pockets are made at the sides of the front for convenience, and the sleeves are of the popular cort type. For the prices quoted the jacket can be made in any length up to 23 inches in the back.

The Skirt is a recent model that comprises nine gores and is in side-plaited effect, and its shaping is such as to insure its being in style for successive seasons.

721.—For afternoon functions every woman requires a stylish costume, and this beautiful suit would be an appropriate choice.

The Eton is in half loose-fitted style, with tucks at the back and front. The fanciful vest is suggested by the application of garniture which also decorates the wide shaped collar that may be selected in silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color. Motifs of braid further contribute to the appearance. Long sleeves may be had, if preferred. The wide belt is decorated with a buckle.

The Skirt is circular, with two box-plaits in front, stitched in slot seam effect. Straps of the material trim the lower edge.

STYLE 722

722.—This charming suit typifies the most recent designs, and includes a single-breasted Eton, elaborated as pictured.

The Eton is half loose-fitting both front and back, the collar being inlaid with silk, satin or moiré, in black, white, or any preferred color. Fancy braid ornaments it, and is also utilized for the vest effect, extending around the lower edge of the jacket. Innumerable rows of soutache braid follow the outline of the fancy braid around the bottom, the fronts, and the elbow cuffs, which may be made of silk, satin or moiré, relieved with fancy braid. The sleeves may be long or short, and a separate belt is provided.

The Skirt is circular with a formation of four plaits on each side of the front.

STYLE 725

725.—This charming suit is the personification of elegance in its shaping, and we heartily recommend it to those who are seeking a costume for fashionable wear.

The Eton is trimmed with tailor braid on the fronts and back, extending around the bottom. Garniture adorns the roll collar, also the cuffs, and both collar and cuffs may be made of silk, satin or moiré. The attached vest, which may be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, is trimmed with novelty braid, and the separate trimmed belt is a pleasing adjunct. Long sleeves may be had, if preferred.

726.—There is an indefinable suggestion of the natty Norfolk designs about this "Pony" model, and the slender woman will find it most becoming.

The Jacket is trimmed with straps of the material both back and front, where a vest is simulated at the center with garniture. Similar braid is employed on the cuffs and flat collar, both of which may be selected in silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color. The elbow sleeves are tucked, but long sleeves may be chosen instead. For the prices quoted, the jacket can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back.

727.—A yoke with novel tab extensions gives rare individuality to this handsome suit, and its general style is such as to commend it to the most fastidious dressers.

The Blouse is single-breasted, varied by a yoke, below which straps of the material relieve the plainness of the smoothly-fitted back and fronts. The collar and elbow cuffs can be had in silk, satin or moiré, in black, white, or any preferred color, adorned with garniture, a novelty braid being employed to suggest a vest at the center. The elbow sleeves are tucked, but long sleeves may be selected instead.

The Skirt has nine gores, and each alternate gore is lengthened by clusters of plaits headed by tabs of the same material.

STYLE 728
($12.00 UP)

728.—This highly tailored suit, which is charming in its severity, is eminently adapted to the younger generation, although they are worn, too, this season by those of maturer years.

The Jacket is shaped in the customary box-like effect, indicative of the "Pony" models, with a seam at the center of the back; a fly closing is adopted for the single-breasted fronts. The mode can be made in any length up to 23 inches in back for the prices quoted. Flap pockets and lapped seams are fashionable conceits.

The Skirt exploits the beauty of the clinging circular modes, being shaped with a seam at the center of the front.

STYLE 729
($17.00 UP)

729.—These captivating "Pony" styles will lead in supremacy, but it must be remembered that they are especially designed for slender women.

The Jacket is half-fitting front and back, and for the prices quoted, it can be made in any length in back up to 21 inches. Straps of the material decorate the cuffs, the back and the fronts. The collar, which accommodates elaborately stitched revers, may be made of silk, satin, moiré or broadcloth in black, white or any preferred color bordered with garniture, like that used for the simulated vest. Long sleeves may be had, if preferred.

The Skirt is circular in shape, and displays an inverted plait at the center of the front. It is trimmed with straps of the material.

STYLE 730

730.—The entire conception of this handsome Eton suit shows its pre-eminence over stereotyped fashions.

The Eton exhibits half-fitting back and fronts, which are trimmed with tucks and also with straps of the material which can be underlaid with silk, satin, moiré or broadcloth in black, white or any preferred color. The collar and cuffs may be selected in silk, satin, moiré or broadcloth outlined with fancy garniture, which also simulates a vest at the center. Elbow sleeves may be ordered, if preferred. A separate belt of the material is supplied.

The Skirt includes five gores, with inverted plaits arranged in clusters at each seam. Buttons furnish the necessary decoration.

STYLE 731
($17.50 UP)

731.—The latest suits of the season of the handsomer order are made with short coats of various sorts, the more fashionable being on the style of the one here shown.

The Eton is half-fitting front and back and trimmed with tucks. The closing is invisibly effected at the center of the front where a facing of the material piped in scalloped outline extends down the fronts and around the back. The collar, revers and cuffs may be inlaid with silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, trimmed with garniture, and the vest effect is obtained with braid like that used on the cuffs. Long sleeves may be had, if desired, and a removable belt of the material is provided.

The Skirt is fashioned with thirteen gores that are stitched in side-plaited effect.

STYLE 732
($14.00 UP)

732.—All will recognize the points of beauty in this natty "Pony" model as suited to slight or medium figures.

The Jacket is square in shaping, and for the prices quoted it can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back. A single-breasted closing is used and straps of the material are called into service. The shawl collar is trimmed with soutache braid, and, with the cuffs, is elaborately stitched. Fancy buttons supplement a resplendent touch, and the sleeves may be long or elbow length, as preferred.

The Skirt, which has nine gores, shows an arrangement of inverted plaits at each alternate gore, as a refreshing change from the regularly plaited models.

STYLE 733
($17.50 UP)

733.—Despite the rivalry existing between various leading models for the season, the Blouse designs continue to hold their own.

The Jacket blouses over a fitted belt, and it is single-breasted, with a concealed closing. Folds of the material are applied at the back and in front so as to resemble the popular nun's tucks. Straps are used to suggest a yoke that extends to the lower edge in plastron effect, with a finish of buttons. The Puritan collar and elbow flare cuffs are trimmed with fancy braid, and they can be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any desired color. Long sleeves may be had, if preferred.

The Skirt is circular in outline, with three folds of the material applied around the bottom to correspond with the jacket.

STYLE 734
($16.00 UP)

734.—These new "Pony" designs are particularly pleasing on slender figures, and the unconventional style of the jacket included in this suit elicits admiring comments.

The Jacket is in the popular "Pony" style, and can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back for the prices quoted. A yoke is suggested by the clever shaping of the mode, and plaits and lapped seams are introduced. Braid trims the collar and cuffs, both of which can be made in silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color. Garniture is utilized for the vest effect, and the tucked sleeves may be selected in elbow or full length.

The Skirt is circular, with inverted plaits arranged at the center of the front, and similar clusters are formed on the sides.

STYLE 735

735.—This neat conception is much admired by women who desire a stylish, serviceable suit for general wear.

The Jacket is tight fitting at the back, and the half loose-fitting fronts close in single-breasted fashion with a fly. The collar and cuffs may be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any color desired, and braid supplies the adornment. Lapped seams provide the high tailor completion of the garment, which, for the prices quoted, can be made in any length up to 23 inches in the back.

The Skirt includes nine gores that are tailor-stitched to form side plaits, and the fulness falls in graceful folds at the lower edge.

STYLE 736
($18.50 UP)

736.—Every woman who desires to preserve her youthful appearance should have an Eton suit, for these girlish designs have invaded the fashionable horizon in full force.

The Eton is single-breasted, and displays the customary half loose-fitting front and back lavishly trimmed with braid and buttons. The stylish cuffs complete sleeves that may be in elbow or full length, and braid furnishes the finish. The mode is collarless, and includes a separate belt trimmed with braid.

The Skirt is a gored model, and exhibits inverted plaits in front, while clusters of plaits are inserted to lengthen the side gores. Straps applied in Vandykes give additional nobbiness.

STYLE 737
($14.50 UP)

737.—This suit may be ranked among the many adaptations of the Eton favorites, and its appearance is unusually striking.

The Eton, which is single-breasted, is adjusted with the usual half loose-fitting front and back, and it is trimmed with straps of the same material. Braid extends around the neck and down the fronts, also around the lower edge. Fancy garniture is employed for the simulated vest, and the sleeves may be in full length, or in elbow length with notched cuffs that are adorned with braid to harmonize with the mode. A separate belt of the material is supplied.

The Skirt is circular, with an inverted plait at the front. The lower edge is trimmed with two straps of the same material.

STYLE 738
($14.00 UP)

738.—The jaunty, youthful Eton designs are to the fore again, with many admirable conceits, and this suit will be invaluable to the woman who desires to be well gowned.

The Eton has double-breasted fronts, which, with the back, support tab extensions at the sides, while the lower edge is stylishly spade-shaped. The fronts and back are half loose-fitting, and a decorative device of straps is utilized. The turnover collar may be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, trimmed with garniture similar to that on the cuffs. Long sleeves may be had, if preferred; the belt is removable.

The Skirt is circular, with an inverted plait at the center of the front, the lower edge being trimmed with a wide strap of the same material.

STYLE 739
($13.50 UP)

739.—The economical woman will be delightfully pleased with this mode, as its simplicity of style is such that it will be invulnerable to the trivial changes of fashion.

The Eton is decorated with straps of the material at the back and in the front, which is half loose-fitting and closes in single-breasted fashion. The collarless neck is outlined with fancy garniture, which is also used to suggest a vest at the center, and braid of a different pattern extends upward on the seams in front, as pictured. If preferred, sleeves in elbow length may be selected, and another interesting adjunct is the separate belt of the material.

The Skirt consists of eleven gores which are in side-plaited effect all around.

STYLE 740
($10.00 UP)

740.—The admirable severity of this faultlessly constructed suit will afford delight to a host of admirers who prefer modest effects.

The Eton is trimmed with a strap of the material, heavily stitched, applied around the neck and front, and the half loose-fitting back corresponds with the fronts in outline. The closing is made in single-breasted fashion, and the elbow sleeves are tucked, but long sleeves may be ordered, if preferred. A removable belt is furnished.

The Skirt is circularly made, with a seam allowed at the center of the front. The adjustment at the top is smooth, and the fashionable flare is described at the lower edge.

STYLE 741
($12.50 UP)

741.—This exponent of the simpler models is stamped with the impress of individuality, and those of slender or medium proportions will advocate its charms.

The Jacket belongs to the latest "Pony" designs, and for the prices quoted can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back, the fronts closing with visible buttons in single-breasted fashion. The half loose-fitting back and fronts are decorated with strappings, and the elbow sleeves are tucked, as illustrated; long sleeves may be had, if desired. Odd straps finish the fronts.

The Skirt is of the orthodox nine-gored type, and is side-plaited all around.

742.—Almost every woman will appreciate the virtues of this neat suit, for its shaping is stylish and yet thoroughly comfortable.

The Blouse is prettily tucked at the back where the fitting is smooth, and the double-breasted fronts are similarly tucked and droop gracefully over a fitted belt that completes the lower edge. A shawl roll collar is employed, below which a visible closing of buttons and cord loops is displayed, and regulation cuffs give wrist completion to the full sleeves that are tucked at the top. Short sleeves may be had, if desired.

The Skirt, which is of circular outline, exhibits two box-plaits arranged at the front, and also on each side in pleasing diversity.

STYLE 743
($14.50 UP)

743.—The distinguished appearance of this chic visiting or street suit reflects creditably on its wearer.

The Eton is in loose-fitting effect in the back and front, where it closes in single-breasted fashion; tucks and straps of the same cloth afford the elaborations. A vest is suggested at the center with fancy garniture, and the irregularly shaped collar and cuffs may be inlaid with silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color and stitched and fancified with braid. Long sleeves may be adopted in place of those illustrated, in elbow length, and a separate belt is added as a neat accessory.

744.—The pretty Eton styles have secured recognition from all womankind, and one cannot ignore their numerous attractions.

The Eton displays half-fitted fronts and back, and is collarless with a single-breasted closing. The neck and the fronts are outlined by a trimming band that can be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, edged with fancy braid, and the cuffs can be selected to match. The sleeves are in full length style, but short sleeves may be had if preferred, and the finishing touch lies in a detachable girdle belt.

The Skirt is circular, and its plain effect is broken by the introduction of inverted plaits in front and also at the sides.

STYLE 746
($13.50 UP)

746.—The unstudied gracefulness of this simple suit will charm those of refined taste who are searching for the plainer models.

The Eton, which is single-breasted in front, where narrow straps of the material furnish the trimming, is made in the customary half loose-fitting style, and the back is adorned at the lower edge with straps, as also are the elbow cuffs. Fancy garniture follows the outline of the collarless neck and fronts, and a vest is simulated at the center with novelty braid. The belt is removable, and either long or short sleeves may be had.

The Skirt is pleasingly severe, being of the circular shaping, and a seam is made at the center of the front. Straps of the material are used as an embellishment.

STYLE 747
($15.00 UP)

747.—Diversity in style is as essential in fashions as in everything else, and suits on this order are warmly appreciated by discriminating dressers. A choice of this kind reflects credit on the possessor, as it reveals several of the latest devices in style.

The Eton is single-breasted and the half loose-fitting fronts and back are trimmed with straps of the same cloth with braid employed as a finish on the fronts and on the flare cuffs. The sleeves may be had in full length, and the fitted belt is removable.

The Skirt consists of nine gores, with an arrangement of plaits in clusters at each alternate gore, headed with braid to match that employed as trimming on the jacket.

STYLE 748
($13.50 UP)

748.—The prevalence of strappings as the fashionable tailor-finish is exemplified in the most recent designs, among which may be classed this suit, whose chief demand is its air of quiet elegance.

The Eton is double-breasted at the top and single-breasted at the bottom, in cutaway style, and it is made in the regular half-loose fitting effect. Straps that are edged with narrow braid which similarly borders the strap-cuffs describe the line of the neck and fronts, and also continue around the bottom, as illustrated. The long sleeves are optional, as the shorter elbow sleeves may be adopted, if preferred. A separate belt is furnished.

The Skirt has nine gores stitched to form side plaits all around.

STYLE 749
($11.00 UP)

749.—This neat tailor suit is the incarnation of faultless lines, and its severity gives it additional charm.

The Eton is half loose-fitting in back and front where it closes in single-breasted fashion. Straps of the same material with reversed tab ends trimmed with buttons simulate bolero fronts. The Eton is in short length so as to disclose the detachable fitted belt. The stylish elbow sleeves display deep Rob Roy cuffs, but long sleeves may be selected, if desired.

The Skirt is one of the circular models, and is distinguished by an inverted plait at the center of the front, and a neat decoration for the lower edge is furnished in straps of the same material that terminate in tab ends finished with buttons.

STYLE 750
($13.50 UP)

750.—In this stylish suit one could pass muster at any gathering, or utilize it for the more prosaic purposes of general street wear.

The Eton displays single-breasted fronts that are half loosely-fitted to correspond with the back, and an effective treatment of the fronts is perpetuated in straps of the same material, in conjunction with buttons. A vest is outlined at the center by use of garniture. The sleeves may be short and finished as pictured with elbow cuffs tailor-stitched, or they may be extended to full length. The removable belt is carefully fitted.

The Skirt is a recent circular design, and possesses an advantage over plainer modes in having two box-plaits formed at the center of the front; similar clusters of box-plaits are allowed at each side.

STYLE 751
($11.50 UP)

751.—Women who take pride in an attractive appearance will applaud the signal charms of this plain, yet elegant gown.

The Eton exhibits a single-breasted closing, with half loosely-fitted fronts and back, and a band of the same cloth is applied on the edges of the front and around the bottom, also extending around the neck. Tailor stitching and fancy braid furnish the decorative treatment, and a detachable belt is provided. The long sleeves show a wrist completion of reversed cuffs which are trimmed to accord with the fronts, but short sleeves with elbow cuffs may be selected, if preferred.

The Skirt is devoid of any decoration, and it is circular in construction, with an inverted plait formed at the center of the front as the main feature.

STYLE 752
($16.00 UP)

752.—Feminine apparel is rapidly encroaching on masculine suggestions, and this beautiful model corroborates this statement in its novel collar and lapels.

The Eton shows sharply pointed extensions at each side that conceal the termination of straps of the material. A notched collar with lapels reversed to the waist line frames the vest, which may be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, with a finish of garniture; the sleeves may be had in full length, if desired. A removable belt is included.

The Skirt is circular, trimmed with wide straps of the material that are applied at each side of an inverted plait at the center; two smaller straps define the lower edge.

STYLE 753

753.—Aside from its strong utilitarian qualities, this neatly tailored suit commands consideration because of the unstudied grace and simplicity of its lines.

The Jacket is single-breasted with half loose-fitting fronts that close with a fly, while the back is tight-fitting. For the prices quoted it can be made in any length up to 23 inches in back. Lapped seams modify the plain appearance, and the collar is mannish in the extreme in its notched outline. Reversed cuffs are displayed as the appropriate finish for the coat sleeves.

The Skirt is circular, and will be found excellent for general usage. An inverted plait is arranged at the center of the front as a mild variation of the more stereotyped modes.

STYLE 754

754.—A suit of this distinguished type attracts attention from the most casual observer, and its style is of assured endurance.

The Eton is half loose-fitting in front and at the back, and a single-breasted closing is observed at the center, where a vest of silk, satin or moiré is simulated with rows of soutache braid edged with fancy narrow braid. A different pattern of braid outlines the edges of the fronts and back, also the edge of the turnback flare cuffs that complete the elbow sleeves. The use of long sleeves is discretionary, as they may be had, if preferred. A removable belt is furnished.

The Skirt is of the approved circular shape, and the front is improved by the addition of two box-plaits, while straps of the same material novelly trim it.

STYLE 755
($16.50 UP)

755.—The conservative shaping of this handsome suit commends it to the woman who wishes to follow leading fashions yet avoid over-elaborate suggestions.

The Blouse is tight-fitting in back with single-breasted fronts that droop becomingly over a belt; the collarless neck is richly fancified with garniture that also extends down the fronts in semblance of a vest, and outlines the flare cuffs. Oddly shaped straps of the same material and braid afford the main embellishment of the blouse, which may be ordered with elbow or long sleeves.

The Skirt is diversified by nine gores that are formed into graceful box-plaits, and straps of the same material are applied at the lower edge of each alternate gore.

756.—For hardy service this design responds admirably and the woman of slender proportions will appreciate its many charms. As a suit of convenience it is incomparable.

The Jacket savors of the new "Pony" outlines in its semi-fitting, and the single-breasted fronts close with a fly. Lapped seams provide the tailor finish at the front and back, and for the prices quoted the mode can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back. The stylishly narrow shawl roll collar is edged with fancy braid, and the coat sleeves have regularly shaped cuffs.

The Skirt belongs to the approved circular styles, with an inverted plait at the center of the front, while at the bottom two straps of the material are applied.

757.—It is safe to predict that the youthful Eton designs have triumphantly entered on a long career of popularity. This pretty suit takes its place among the foremost, and it is a representative of the latest fashions.

The Eton is half loosely-fitted with single-breasted fronts which are elaborated with straps of the same material and a curious tab finish. Fancy garniture is utilized at the neck and for the vest effect, and the unique cuffs display a tab completion. Long or short sleeves may be had, and a separate belt is provided.

The Skirt is of circular outline, with an inverted plait arranged at the center. The lower edge is varied by the addition of two straps of the same cloth in tailor finish.

STYLE 758
($15.00 UP)

758.—One could not select a more attractive costume than this design, as it is the correct mode for exclusive wear. It is simple, yet it betrays the essentials of good style.

The Eton is single-breasted, and half loosely-fitted front and back. Braid furnishes the trimmings for the fronts, and is applied also around the neck and as an edging for the flare cuffs, the lower edge of the jacket being decorated in the same manner. Long sleeves may be had, if preferred, and a removable belt is furnished.

The Skirt includes nine gores, and each alternate gore suggests a panel between which are inserted clusters of plaits that are headed with braid matching that used on the jacket.

STYLE 759
($13.50 UP)

759.—This chic suit naturally suggests itself for numerous usages that include visiting, shopping, etc.

The Eton is half loosely-fitted in back and front, where a single-breasted closing is effected. Straps of the same material bordered with plaited silk ruching supply the requisite tailor finish, and are continued around the back and down the fronts, also around the lower edge, the cuffs being edged with ruching to match. The sleeves may be had in elbow length, if preferred, and a belt is also supplied.

The Skirt is circular, with an inverted plait at the center of the front, and a strap of the same material, finished with buttons, trims the lower edge.

STYLE 760
($13.50 UP)

760.—A selection, such as this conservatively shaped suit, will more than reward one by its pleasing merits, and the suit may be worn on all outdoor occasions without hesitation.

The Eton has lapped seams, and the single-breasted fronts are half loosely-fitted to correspond with the back. Three rows of narrow braid trim the neck and the edges of the fronts, similar braid being used on the cuffs and lower edge of the jacket. The short sleeves may be replaced by those in full length, and a belt of the same material is supplied.

The Skirt conforms to the simple gored models in its graceful shaping, as it comprises nine gores in side-plaited effect all around.

STYLE 761
($13.50 UP)

761.—The most prejudiced critic must concede the superiority of this simple yet elegant suit, and after a bewilderment of frivolous fads, it is a welcome departure.

The Eton is made with the regulation half loose-fitting front and back, and a single-breasted closing is completed at the center. The back and front are trimmed with straps of the same material, while the neck, fronts and lower edge are decorated with three rows of soutache. A removable belt provides a stylish completion at the waist line, and long sleeves may be employed instead of the elbow sleeves represented here.

The Skirt is circular in cut, with an inverted plait allowed at the center of the front as the important feature.

STYLE 762
($15.00 UP)

762.—This is an exceptionally attractive suit, and for women who possess good figures, we can advise no more becoming design.

The Jacket is tight-fitting, with single-breasted fronts that display a visible button closing and cutaway edges, and for the prices quoted it can be made in any length up to 19 inches in the back. Lapped seams provide a trim outline, and the lay-down collar and reversed cuffs can be had in silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color, with a decoration of fancy garniture. Hip pockets are convenient accessories.

The Skirt is of the regular circular construction, and its plain appearance is improved by the formation of two box-plaits at the center of the front.

763.—The woman who selects this beautiful model will find it will elicit only admiring comments from the most fastidious.

The Eton is half loose-fitting in back and front, where it is single-breasted and shaped to give the semblance of a plastron yoke; straps of the same material elaborate the fronts. Garniture trims the elbow sleeves, and is extended up the fronts in vest effect, while braid simulates a collar and is employed on the lower edge of the jacket in front, the back being trimmed to correspond. A removable belt is provided, and long or short sleeves may be selected.

The Skirt includes eleven gores which are in side-plaited effect all around. A tailor finish is adopted.

STYLE 764

764.—The Princess modes are regarded essentially as criterions of beauty, and we picture here the latest vogue.

The Eton is double-breasted with half loose-fitting back and fronts. Straps of the material afford the elaboration; braid edges the cuffs and fronts, both of which can be faced with silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any preferred color. The strap collar is inlaid with braid, and the sleeves may be long or short.

The Skirt is in Princess style, with two box-plaits at the center of the front and back; clusters of inverted plaits are inserted at each side, finished with buttons and loops. Straps of the material decorate the top.

765.—As an example of extreme charm, this simply fashioned suit is a fitting representative of the tailor suit of to-day.

The Eton, which displays the customary half loose-fitting back and front, is decorated with straps of the same material down the front and around the bottom, and a single-breasted closing is employed. The lay-down collar and cavalier cuffs can be made of silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any color desired, and fancy braid edges these accessories. A removable belt is supplied, and long or short sleeves may be had.

The Skirt is circular, developed with a panel front, lengthened by a cluster of inverted plaits. Straps of the material and buttons combine to produce a chic finish.

766.—There are many women who regard favorably the double-breasted vogues, and this suit will at once appeal to them.

The Blouse is fancified with tucks both back and front, and the fronts lap and close in double-breasted style with buttons and buttonholes. The sleeves may be in full length, tucked above the conservative flare cuffs, or they may be in short elbow outline with a stylish cuff completion. The shawl roll collar may be had in silk, satin or moiré, in black, white or any color desired, with a border of fancy garniture.

The Skirt is circular with an inverted plait at the center of the front.

STYLE 767
($13.50 UP)

767.—Our designs offer the desired feature of originality, and this charming Eton suit is destined for great favor.

The Eton is in the required length that permits the necessity of a belt, which is here made separate, and its single-breasted fronts and also the back are half loosely-fitted, with straps of the same material decorating the front and the lower edge. Long sleeves may be ordered instead of the short elbow ones, finished with cavalier cuffs, which, with the pointed lay-down collar, are edged with silk, satin or moiré, embellished with fancy braid.

The Skirt is circularly shaped, and an effective idea is adopted in an arrangement of a box-plait at each side of the front, with inverted plaits in the center; a flounce is added on the sides, as pictured.

STYLE 768

768.—The "Pony" styles, although primarily not suited to any but women of slender proportions from their semi-square shaping, are among the novelties of the day.

The Jacket, which conforms to the "Pony" outline and may be had in any length up to 21 inches in the back for the prices quoted, displays a fly closing on the single-breasted fronts, and it is decorated with straps of the same material that extend down the fronts, back and around the lower edge. The lay-down collar may be inlaid with silk, satin or moiré in black, white or any preferred color, edged with fancy braid.

The Skirt is seven-gored with a cluster of plaits at the front and similar clusters at each side of the alternate box-plaits.

769.—Our models proclaim the latest essentials of the majestic Princess designs and many of their charms are displayed in this beautiful suit.

The Eton comprises single-breasted fronts that are half loosely-fitted, as is the back, and the chief elaboration is secured with straps of the same material, which are applied, as pictured. The cuffs are also decorated with straps, as a neat finish, and fancy braid is employed to outline the collarless neck and the edges of the front. The selection of long or elbow sleeves is permitted.

The Skirt is the new Princess style, adjusted with thirteen gores that are stitched as far as the knees, below which they depend in graceful side-plaits.

770.—There are many occasions when a woman requires a gown more elaborate than her street suit. This beautiful visiting costume is essentially correct for receptions or other ceremonious functions.

The Waist is tucked in front and at the back, and the fulness at the lower edge is confined under a crush belt that is a removable feature. A detachable tucked chemisette with collar is supplied, and it is prettily framed by the fronts which cross in surplice fashion and show a decorative device of buttons. Either long or short sleeves may complete the mode, and the cuffs may be of the cavalier shaping at the elbow or of the regular cut for the wrist.

The Skirt, which follows the circular standard, is a graceful model in every detail, with clusters of inverted plaits formed in front and at each side, as illustrated.

771.—A costume that may be devoted to all-around service without discrimination is indispensable to the majority of women, and it should be of such stylish endowments at the same time that it will pass muster anywhere. This costume is on this order, and for these reasons it is prophesied a large patronage.

The Waist is made with tucks in front, in yoke effect, and the slightly drooping fulness is drawn in at the waist line under a crush belt. The back is also tucked, and an appropriate neck completion is obtained with a regulation standing collar having a tab-finished turnover, while mitaine cuffs add style to the sleeves.

The Skirt conforms to the circular exactions, and is smoothly adjusted at the top, and at the center of the front inverted plaits are formed.

772.—As an elaborate costume this charming design embodies the fascinating features that figure in the most elegant modes.

The Waist displays tucked fronts which blouse over a softly crushed belt that is made removable, and the tucked fronts reveal a vest decorated with fancy garniture. Narrow plaited silk ruching prettily ornaments the novel sleeves, which have cuffs similarly trimmed, the use of long sleeves being optional. A tucked chemisette and collar of the same material, which are detachable from the waist, are included.

The Skirt is circular in shaping, and the severity of the front is obliterated by the adoption of two box-plaits. A strap of the same material and plaited ruching to match that utilized in the waist furnish the trimming.

STYLE 773

773.—A piquant air is given this lovely garment in the introduction of tucks, this device being one of the favorite methods of elaboration for waists and skirts without distinction.

The Waist is effectively tucked at the back and in front, where fancy garniture is employed to outline a vest at the center, the Tuxedo collar and bell cuffs being decorated to correspond. The removable chemisette of the same material is tucked in continuation with the collar, and a smart adjunct is a crush belt, the use of which is optional, as it is a separate item. Long sleeves are offered, if short sleeves are not desired.

The Skirt is of the regular circular cut, and it is improved by the addition of inverted plaits in front and at each side, as shown in the illustration.

774.—Neatness and utility are the factors united in this stylish suit, and it may be worn impartially for exclusive service or for more indefinite purposes.

The Waist attests to the becomingness of box-plaits in conjunction with pin-tucks, both at the back and in front, where a visible button closing is effected through a box-plait arranged at the center. The fulness at the lower edge is secured under a crush belt, which is made detachable, and the new style sleeves are pin-tucked above the natty cuffs, as pictured. Neck completion is furnished in a regularly shaped collar finished with a silk bow.

The Skirt accords with the treatment of the waist, as it has five box-plaits, between which pin-tucks are employed as the means of elaboration in graceful effect.

775.—A beautiful selection for dress occasions is pictured here, and it will evoke flattering remarks from the most fastidious critics because of its apparent charms and general becomingness.

The Waist shows a yoke in plastron effect, below which tucks are introduced over the bust and at the back. Plaited silk ruching forms the dainty decoration for the waist providing the trimming on the sleeves and novelty cuffs, the collar being in harmony with these accessories. The use of long or short sleeves is optional, and a separate crush girdle is an added feature.

The Skirt, which is of the circular shaping with a center seam, is decorated at the lower edge with a band of the same material, edged with the plaited ruching, to match the trimming device utilized on the waist.

STYLE 776
($12.00 UP)

776.—Yokes, in all sorts of fantastic outlines, characterize many of the newest creations in blouses, and a pretty device on this order infuses a piquant atmosphere to this highly tailored suit.

The Waist displays a plastron yoke that is extended to the lower edge, and tucks take up the fulness over the bust, while diminutive buttons and straps provide the trimming, the back being tucked also. Tabs decorate the collar, and the sleeves may terminate at the elbow with turnback cuffs, or they may be in full length. The crush belt is detachable.

The Skirt consists of six gores, with an inverted box-plait arranged at the center of the front, while at each seam clusters of inverted plaits are disposed.

777.—This stylish visiting costume will distinguish its wearer, as it conforms to all necessary requirements of fashion.

The Waist, which displays a yoke in front below which the fulness is taken up in gathers, is simply tucked at the back, and a generous usage of tiny buttons invests the garment with attractiveness. Deep mitaine cuffs supply individuality to the sleeves, which, if preferred, may be completed at the elbow with cuffs of the regulation styles. A fancy stock and crush belt are novel adjuncts.

The Skirt is circular and has two box-plaits at the front, and groups of tuck cordings decorate the mode, as pictured, while the hips are elaborated with similar cordings to deep yoke depth.

778.—A charming nautical suggestion is given in this attractive costume, its salient points of interest being centered in the stylishly exaggerated sailor collar and sailor's scarf knotted carelessly on the bust.

The Waist is the inimitable sailor effect, and it is tucked above the bust, while the lower edge droops characteristically over a fitted belt. The square collar frames a removable chemisette topped with a collar supporting turnovers, and a choice of elbow sleeves with turnback cuffs, or of the customary long sleeves, is offered.

The Skirt belongs to the popular circular design, and it is diversified by an arrangement of two box-plaits at the front and two at each side, as illustrated.

779.—The picturesque outline of a Pompadour yoke invests this handsome visiting costume with individual grace and charm and in every detail is proclaimed its adherence to the newest styles.

The Waist is elaborately tucked in front, at the back and on the outside of the elbow sleeves; a tucked yoke is accommodated at the center and completed with a collar in seeming continuation of the tucks. Fancy braid defines the Pompadour yoke and edges the turnback elbow cuffs. Long sleeves may be had, if preferred, and a removable belt forms a neat acquisition.

The Skirt is of a favorite shaping, with an inverted plait in the front, and is side-plaited all around, with the flare at the foot pleasingly emphasized.

STYLE 782
($11 00 UP)

782.—The simple lines of this design will appeal to the most fastidious as a garment intended for service and general indiscriminate wear.

The Waist is box-plaited in back and front, as shown, the closing being visibly made at the center. The sleeves, which may be long, or terminate at the elbow with Puritan cuffs, are similarly box-plaited. The appearance of the waist is greatly augmented by the addition of a stock completed with a turnover. A separate belt of the material accompanies the costume.

The Skirt is especially adapted to shirt waist suitings, being made with narrow box-plaits, and a wider plait of tapering width is laid at the center of the front.

783.—A costume of this order is invaluable, as it is a happy compromise on the more elaborate designs, and its faultless lines are recognized at once.

The Waist is trimmed in front with Princess tucks and straps of the material fancified with buttons; the smooth fitting back is simply tucked. The closing is concealed under a strap at the front, and a stock with a turnover distinguishes the neck. The sleeves are gathered at the wrists into regular cuffs, but if preferred, short elbow sleeves may be had. A smart accessory is the strap belt.

The Skirt is of the five-gored variety; its severity is relieved by the disposition of clusters of plaits at each seam, as represented.

785.—This suit introduces revers of the Directoire order, and in other essentials does it proclaim its superiority.

The Waist is tucked above the bust, thus producing the necessary fulness, and the back, which exhibits a box-plait at the center, is tucked to correspond. An ornate effect is obtained with narrow plaitings of silk which edge the novelty cuffs, the fronts and also the pointed revers, and a removable chemisette of the material tucked en bayadere, extends to the bust. Long sleeves may be had, if preferred, and a separate belt of the material is furnished.

The Skirt is an innovation in circular modes. A double box-plait is formed at the center of the front, and three straps of the material are applied around the bottom.

786.—Feminine fancy has been caught by the adaptability of silk quillings and plaitings for decorating blouses and costumes.

The Waist is fancified by plaitings of silk that are applied in pointed outline, and the wide box-plait trimmed with ornaments fashioned of the same silk conceals the closing at the front, a similar plait modifying the back. Tucks remove the fulness at the lower edge of the blouse. Plaitings of silk trim the collar and the deep turnback cuffs which complete the elbow sleeves. Long sleeves may be selected, if preferred, and a separate wide belt of the material is furnished.

The Skirt is of circular design shaped with an inverted plait at the center of the front. A strap of the material, edged with plaitings of silk, furnishes the garniture.

The Waist belongs to the tucked models, the fulness above the bust being controlled in tucks stitched in plait finish, and a regulation Duchess closing is adopted at the center. The back is tucked across the top, and a removable belt of the material trimly defines the waist line. Turnback cuffs afford stylish wrist completion for the sleeves, and a graceful butterfly bow adds a chic air to the stock, which is finished with turnovers. Short sleeves may be had, if preferred.

The Skirt is circular, with an inverted plait at the front stitched in slot-seam effect. Plaits ornament the lower edge.

STYLE 788
($11.00 UP)

788.—This shirt-waist suit introduces a pleasing adaptation of current vogues, including the popular surplice effects.

The Waist is characterized by a yoke that is suggested with straps and buttons and is rounded at the back, which is tucked at the center; the fronts cross in surplice fashion. A vest trimmed with loops and buttons completes the waist, and a stylish collar is introduced. Cuffs that are oddly trimmed with straps are displayed at the wrists, and a belt of the same material finishes the lower edge of the waist.

The Skirt conforms to the circular modes, and exhibits a box-plait in front. Three straps of the material that terminate in front with rounded ends and buttons are employed for the decoration.

789.—The indefinable touches of exclusiveness are impregnated in this chic visiting costume, which women of maturer years will find especially suited to their needs.

The Waist is embellished in front with Princess tucks, which also appear at the center of the back, and at the top it is cut in scalloped outline to reveal a removable tucked vest or chemisette headed with a conventional high collar. Pipings border the irregular outline; the flare cuffs are scalloped, to accord with the waist, which is invisibly closed in front. Provision is made for a separate belt of the material.

The Skirt, which is one of the recent circular models, is varied with clusters of Princess tucks, which are disposed, as illustrated, in a most effective manner.

STYLE 790
($11.00 UP)

790.—This natty shirt-waist suit is adapted to the wants of both town and country, and is attractive in its simplicity.

The Waist is tucked to produce the characteristic drooping fulness, which is trimly held at the waist line by a removable crush girdle. The squarely-shaped sailor collar and wide strap cuffs are adorned with braid, and a chemisette embroidered in a chevron and topped with a standing collar is a fashionable conceit. A scarf of silk knotted in true naval style over the bust supplies a dashing effect, which is increased by the short elbow sleeves, but long sleeves may be had, if they are preferred.

The Skirt consists of thirteen gores stitched in side-plaited style, allowing the requisite flare around the lower edge.

791.—There is a generous latitude allowed in the style of a suit that must answer for manifold purposes, yet the limitations of Dame Fashion should be followed in the design and color selected. A pretty model is shown here, as an example of recent vogues.

The Waist is tucked above the bust, and it is shaped at the top in pointed Tuxedo outline to disclose a removable chemisette completed with a tucked collar, which is made of the same material. The back of the waist is elaborated with tucks arranged in clusters. A convenient adjunct is a detachable belt of the material. Short sleeves may be adopted as a substitute for the long sleeves represented here.

792.—This charming conception will appeal to womankind because of its unusual attractiveness, and we cannot too highly extol its many virtues.

The Waist is tucked on the shoulders in front and at the back, and the low-cut outline of the fronts shows to advantage the removable tucked chemisette completed with a regularly shaped collar finished with tab ends, both of which are made of the same material. Bows of the material ornament the front, where the closing is concealed, and turnover cuffs offer completion for the sleeves. A belt of the material that is made separate from the waist is furnished.

The Skirt, which comprises seven tapering gores, is modified by a cluster of three plaits formed at each seam.

793.—The natty suggestions that impregnate this suit readily invest it with distinction, and it is an enviable selection for a costume that will serve for ceremonious occasions.

The Waist displays box-plaited fronts with an invisible closing down the center finished with cords and buttons. The back has two box-plaits, and the youthful short sleeves terminate at the elbow with turnover cuffs of the conventional shaping. The use of long sleeves is a matter of individual taste, as they may be selected, if preferred. The collar with tab turnover and a removable belt of the material finished with a buckle emphasize the attractiveness of the design.

The Skirt is box-plaited all around, and at the lower edge the plaits are distended in graceful folds.

STYLE 794
($11.50 UP)

794.—A novel adaptation of the artistic sailor designs is introduced here, and its fantastic conceits bear the impression of the most recent styles. It is a model that discerning women in New York regard with favor.

The Waist exhibits a shield-shaped front and back, and is in sailor effect with a slightly blousing fulness. A beautiful pattern of braid decorates the odd collar, the tabs on the fronts, also the turnback cuffs. Tucks elaborate the elbow sleeves, and the choice of sleeves in full length style is available, if desired. A graceful sailor knot of silk is supplied. We do not furnish the lace chemisette shown with this suit.

The Skirt is of the favorite circular shaping, and clusters of inverted plaits vary the plain outline of the front.

795.—Every woman prefers to escape the petty annoyances of planning the style of her costumes and worrying over the fit and finish. A trial of our unique and original system will prove that we can relieve her of all these difficulties and make the purchase of a new costume a genuine pleasure.

The Waist supports a plastron yoke at the front where a Duchesse closing is made at the center, and it is tucked elaborately over the bust, and tucks are also introduced at the back. The sleeves are of the stereotyped order, and gathered at the wrists under straight cuffs, and the natty stock is finished with turnovers. The belt is detached from the waist, and slopes prettily toward the front.

The Skirt is of the approved circular design and an inverted plait is utilized at the front to relieve its plain appearance.

796.—This charming suit exploits the beauty of a Puritan yoke, and its numerous youthful suggestions entitle it to exclusive favor. As a smart visiting costume, it will give utmost satisfaction.

The Waist is topped by a Puritan yoke that is elaborated with straps of the same material, and cords and buttons fancify the plastron extension at the center. Tucks remove the fulness below the yoke, at the back and also in front, and pretty conceits are the tab-finished stock at the neck and the turnback cuffs, which give elbow completion to the short sleeves. Long sleeves may be had, if desired, and a removable belt is supplied.

The Skirt offers pleasing diversity in its modeling, as it consists of eleven gores and is in side-plaited effect all around.

STYLE 797
($10.00 UP)

797.—A fashionably constructed suit that may with equal impunity be delegated to exclusive visiting or street wear, is indispensable among woman's needs. The merits of this handsome costume are readily discernible.

The Waist is tucked in front and in back. The fronts are fancified with braid, and tabs of the same material adorned with small buttons, and a chic tab turnover graces the collar. The crush belt is made separate, and the sleeves may be long or short, according to choice.

The Skirt is circularly adjusted with an inverted plait modifying its severity at the center of the front, and it is neatly decorated at the bottom with a strap of the same material finished in a pretty manner with buttons.

STYLE 798
($10.00 UP)

798.—Simplicity is the keynote of this thoroughly correct visiting gown, and those who desire an avoidance of ostentatious display cannot fail to admire its plain aspect.

The Waist shows the influence of the sailor vogues, and it is tucked in the back and in front where the fulness droops becomingly over the removable belt. A lay-down collar frames the chemisette which is topped by a standing collar, and tucked across, as pictured, and a jaunty touch is supplied in a carelessly knotted tie. Long sleeves are available, or, if preferred, the sleeves may be in elbow length, as shown.

The Skirt is circular, and is transformed by the use of two box-plaits at the center of the front, with a similar group of box-plaits formed at each side.

799.—A quaint Puritan-shaped yoke invests this graceful costume with artistic style which few other models share.

The Waist is headed by a round yoke suggestive of the Puritan conceits, and a box-plait is simulated at the center of the back to correspond with a similar plait adopted in front that conceals the closing. Tucks take up the fulness below the yoke in front, and natty accessories are to be had in the removable crush belt and tab-finished collar. Elbow sleeves completed with flare cuffs of the conventional order are adopted, but they may be replaced by long sleeves, if desired.

The Skirt voices the popularity of plaits, as it displays an inverted plait at the center of the front, and the sides and back are side-plaited.

STYLE 800
($8.00 UP)

800.—This suit of wash material is an attractive substitute for the cloth tailor-made for wear in warm weather, and it is developed in strictly tailor finish.

The Jacket adheres to the Eton type, and is in plaited effect, with a yoke that extends down the front in plastron style. Straps of the material are utilized for trimming, and also decorate the back, which is plaited to correspond with the fronts. A sailor-like collar inlaid with all-over lace supplies an air of distinction, and fashionable conceits are a separate belt and turnback cuffs that complete the elbow sleeves. Long sleeves, however, are available, if preferred.

The Skirt is one of the newest designs, being box-plaited all around. Stitching adds greatly to its appearance.

801.—A long tailor-finished coat that is easily laundered is serviceable for traveling and outdoor wear in warm weather, and this fashionable construction includes a coat of this character.

The Coat is shaped with the customary loose-fitting front and back that distinguish garments of this order, and for the prices quoted it can be made in any length up to 42 inches in back. A fly closing is employed on the single-breasted fronts, and the addition of a notched collar gives a nobby effect in neck completion. Stylish turnback cuffs finish the wrists of the comfortably large sleeves.

The Skirt belongs to the eleven-gored variety, and is effectively side-plaited, with a box-plait arranged at the center of the front.

802.—This smart little wash suit comprises a blouse jacket, and the appearance of the entire costume is highly gratifying in the most minute detail.

The Blouse is prettily tucked to yoke depth in front, and also at the back, the relieved fulness drooping becomingly over a fitted belt that defines the waist line. The fronts lap and close with buttons and loops in double-breasted style, and above the closing a flatly applied collar, suggestive of the familiar shawl roll collar, is employed. Flare cuffs offer the finish for the sleeves, which are slightly fulled at the wrist in accordance with current fashions, and stitching accentuates the trim tailor finish.

The Skirt consists of nine gores, a pleasing variation being the introduction of inverted plaits, headed by tabs, at the lower edge of each alternate gore.

803.—A vest effect of fancy linen supplies the requisite contrast to this pretty wash suit, the jacket of which is built on the outlines of the inimitable "Pony" styles, which are very becoming to slight figures.

The Jacket, which can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back for the prices quoted, is in the popular "Pony" effect, being semi-fitted, as shown, and straps of the material fancify the front, and also the back, extending over the shoulders. A stylish adjunct is the conventionally shaped shawl collar, and the vest insert of fancy linen gives the required relief. The cuffs, which are irregular in outline, are strapped to accord with the jacket.

The Skirt is of the circular mode, and straps of the same material are uniquely applied as a decoration.

804.—This natty wash suit, which is especially adapted to slender figures, carries with it an atmosphere of severity that is refreshing after the deluge of more elaborate styles.

The Jacket, which is single-breasted, suggests the box outlines and is loose-fitting in front with a fly closing, the back being also loosely fitted. For the prices quoted it can be made in any length up to 24 inches in the back. The neck is completed with a natty Tuxedo collar, and convenient accessories are the welt-finished pocket high on the left bust, and pockets concealed by flaps on the sides, lower down. Sleeves of the regulation coat type are adopted as being in keeping with the style of the jacket.

The Skirt has seven gores, and a cluster of two plaits are formed at each seam in graceful effect.

812.—The virtues of the wash suit are too well known to the average woman to be ignored, and the demands of warm weather are such as to make the adoption of dresses of this order imperative.

The Eton, which closes at the center in single-breasted fashion, shows the effectiveness of straps of the same material as a decorative treatment, and the usual half loose-fitting is a feature of the back and front. The wide shawl collar is inlaid with lace; cuffs in scalloped outline supply style to the elbow sleeves, which, if preferred, may be dispensed with and long sleeves adopted in their place. The belt is made separate.

The Skirt displays a box-plait at the center of the front, and is side-plaited all around.

813.—A washable suit distinguished with lapped seams is a decided novelty, and such a garment is represented here in severe tailor effect. Where vigorous service is a requirement, a design similar to this withstands repeated laundering in a most satisfactory manner.

The Eton, which is collarless, shows the adoption of lapped seams, and it is loosely fitted at the back and in front where a single-breasted closing is employed. The belt is removable, and the coat sleeves harmonize with the other simple essentials.

The Skirt is so constructed as to retain its shape, despite continued washing, and it includes seven gores that are side-plaited all around, as illustrated.

814.—The piquant lines of the thoroughly feminine "Frocks and Frills" conceptions belong to this irresistible model, which perpetuates the beauty of the tailored wash suit.

The Eton is plaited all around, and straps of the material define the yoke. A strip of embroidered linen is extended around the neck and down the front in simulation of a vest. A narrow band of lace outlines the lower edge of the jacket, which is closed in the usual single-breasted manner, and is fashionably short in length so as to reveal a detachable belt that encircles the waist. Long sleeves may be ordered in place of the short elbow ones, with strap cuffs providing the completion.

The Skirt is circular, with two box-plaits at the center of the front, and is trimmed with three rows of narrow lace.

815.—Lace trimming will be a noticeable feature of numerous Summer frocks, and even in the severer models designed for street and traveling will this dainty garniture be utilized.

The Jacket, in "Pony" style, is loose-fitting at the back and in front, where the closing is effected in the favorite single-breasted way. It is prettily trimmed with lace that extends around the collarless neck and down the fronts, continuing also around the lower edge as the garniture. For the prices quoted the jacket can be made in any length up to 21 inches in the back. The sleeves display bell cuffs headed by straps secured with buttons, but long sleeves may be chosen, if desired.

816.—A pretty waist of the blouse or lingerie type requires a stylish skirt for wear with it, and one that will give a most satisfactory impression is illustrated here, with many unique features expressed in its development.

The Skirt is adjusted according to the latest circular designs, and clusters of inverted plaits break the plain effect of the front. Groups of straps of the material are applied en bayadere, at regular distances, as the chief embellishment, and produce a highly original trimming device that is employed on few models. The faultless lines will commend it to any one who wishes a skirt of unusual merits. There is no lining used.

817.—The up-to-date wardrobe should not be limited to the possession of one separate skirt, for many occasions arise that make it necessary to keep at least two different styles for unexpected demands. Both outdoor and indoor wear call for diverse designs, and but few models so happily combine both requisites as does this unpretentious yet chic skirt.

The Skirt is varied by the introduction of a panel at the front, and like the majority of the season's output, it is circular in outline. Straps are used to simulate a hip yoke, and a single strap supplies the simple decoration around the bottom. It is unlined.

This pleasing subject belongs to this popular class, and for practical purposes, or for wear with separate blouses it has few equals in point of attractions.

The Skirt is conventionally constructed, being in box-plaited effect all around, and it is stitched as far as the knees so as to insure perfect adjustment at the top. The ample width of the lower edge is in conformity with prevailing styles, and a tailor finish is adopted in machine stitching. It is made without a lining.

820.—Since the uses of the separate skirt are many, more than one is necessary. The pretensions of this excellent model may be briefly summarized as belonging to the ever-popular plaited creations, which continue to maintain their high standing in public esteem.

The Skirt is out of the ordinary in its development, and has two box-plaits exhibited at the front, and similar clusters of box-plaits at each side, while inverted plaits are effectively set in the gores between each box-plait. The introduction of tabs of the same material and buttons gives a stylish air to the garment, which is finished in tailor stitching at the seams and is carefully fitted at the top. There is no lining used.

821.—The traditional grace of the plaited designs distinguishes this handsome tailored skirt, and as an alternative to the circular modes, it would be a wise choice. Worn with a nobby separate jacket or coat, it may well take the place of the costume skirt, and its features are established among the most favored.

The Skirt has two box-plaits at the front that are stitched in place, as illustrated, and it is circular at the sides and back, where a plaited flounce lengthens it. Clusters of tailor folds of the same material, applied at even intervals, afford it a rare individuality that will be found on only the most superior models. Machine stitching gives the final touches. There is no lining employed.

It will be found most desirable for usage with odd blouses for indoor wear, and when worn with a jaunty little jacket, makes a faultless costume for the street.

The Skirt shows a yoke at the top that is in one piece with the front, which is formed in an inverted plait, and at the sides side plaits give a pleasing effect below the yoke. The addition of stitching, which is employed as a finish, renders it most attractive throughout. The skirt will be made unlined.

824.—A stylishly made skirt is indispensable, as it may be conveniently donned in haste, and subjected to numerous purposes that are not appropriate for the more dignified tailor suit. Trimness of outline and shapeliness attract attention in this chic model.

This Skirt embraces numerous commendable expressions, the most important being its neat adjustment at the top, and it is varied by box-plaits with three side-plaits arranged on each side of the box-plaits as illustrated, thus producing the required amplitude at the bottom. Tailor stitching provides a neat finish for the mode, which attracts admiring comments wherever seen. It is made without a lining.

825.—By far, one of the most welcome innovations of the year is the clinging circular design, to which leaders of fashion pay due homage. This skirt is no exception to the established rule, and is a general favorite for mature and youthful wearers, being handsomely tailor finished.

The Skirt attests to the prevalence of the circular vogues in its construction, and its plain appearance is stylishly relieved by the application of two folds of the same material, suggestive of the popular nun's tucks, around the bottom. As additional decoration, three straps of the same cloth are arranged above, and extend upward at each side of the front. There is no lining used.

836.—One cannot ignore the desirability of a well-tailored skirt, for the continued popularity of lingerie waists and blouses has firmly established their need, and the fashionable wardrobe should contain more than one to be properly equipped.

This Skirt is an elaborate design and exploits the beauty of plaits as a variation of the stereotyped models. Inverted plaits are introduced in panel effect in front, and the fanciful sides are lengthened by similar plaits arranged in kilted style. A highly tailored appearance is obtained by the lavish usage of stitching, and buttons. The generous fulness at the lower edge is a desirable feature. There is no lining used.

841.—Fastidious dressers are always on the qui vive for novelty and originality, and both of these factors play an important part in the make-up of this beautiful skirt. Designed to meet the exactions of fashionable wear, it is admirably qualified to grace any function.

The Skirt is a favorite model and has nine gores, an odd effect being secured with an arrangement of clusters of plaits at each alternate gore. A neat tailor finish is adopted, as illustrated, and the general impression is satisfactory throughout. The skirt is made without a lining.

842.—The separate skirt, as an accompaniment of the fancy or lingerie waist, is too indispensible to ever be discarded. Current fashions demand that one possess several, for variation of the toilette. The woman of fashion will welcome this design as being suitable for semi-dress occasions, as well as for general wear.

The Skirt is smoothly adjusted at the top, and is box-plaited all around, with the plaits stitched in place below the knees, thus assuring a trim outline. The fulness at the lower edge is in keeping with the demands of fashion. There is no lining used.

843.—The symmetrical lines of this graceful model endear it to every woman who prides herself in making the most of her best points, and suggesting as they do height and slenderness, it is especially becoming to those who are short in stature. It is appropriate for various needs, as will be seen by its stylish development.

The Skirt is on the box-plaited order, and clusters of inverted plaits are allowed between each box-plait, showing its superiority over the more stereotyped models. A tailor finish is adhered to, and the fulness at the lower edge is accentuated. This skirt is unlined.

844.—It is impossible to expatiate on the charms of this handsome skirt in limited space, for words cannot adequately describe it. Being of novel construction, it makes an ideal selection for fashionable wear, showing to best advantage in such fabrics as taffeta, peau de soie, moiré or cloth, all of which are in the height of style. This model is a pronounced favorite in New York.

The Skirt consists of nine gores and its chief attraction is the arrangement of panels in strappings, below which clusters of plaits are formed at each alternate gore. The entire effect is out of the ordinary and satisfactory in every detail, as a high tailor finish is employed. There is no lining used.

845.—The arrangement of plaits in long unbroken lines is attractively presented in this skirt, and whether as a street skirt or for indoor wear this design is a great favorite. The model is well adapted to moiré, or if preferred, it may be had in peau de soie, taffeta or cloth. The long lines of the mode will add height to the wearer.

This Skirt is one of our most popular models for general wear, and enjoys unabated patronage because of its graceful outlines. The mode is shaped with fourteen gores, and is side-plaited all around, a commendable feature being the perfect adjustment over the hips, which is a requisite of all the most recent fashions. The skirt is unlined.

846.—A panel front stamps this beautiful design with originality and exclusiveness, and whether constructed in taffeta, peau de soie, moiré or cloth, it is appropriate for general, formal or dignified wear. A skirt of this type, however, should be ordered only in thin or pliable materials, since heavier fabrics do not shir satisfactorily.

The Skirt is distinguished by a panel at the center of the front, and the sides are circularly shaped, with the fulness at the top controlled in shirrings. Straps of the material provide the simple decoration demanded at the lower edge, as illustrated, and the prescribed flare is clearly emphasized. No lining is employed.

847.—A variety of odd skirts should be included in the fashionable wardrobe, and since the plaited vogues continue to hold their own among rival competitors for favor, one of this distinctive order makes a desirable acquisition. This mode is highly recommended for street wear, because of its practical qualities, and moiré, taffeta, peau de soie or cloth give excellent results in reproducing it.

The Skirt displays a simulated box-plait at the front, in panel effect, and it is stylishly side-plaited all around as represented, with the plaits falling in graceful folds at the lower edge. Machine stitching supplies the tailor finish that is an essential of all exclusive garments. There is no lining used.

848.—There is a certain nobbiness about the short jacket that is difficult to define; this is clearly demonstrated in this chic design, which may be combined with any of our separate skirts to form a suit, if so desired.

The Jacket, which for the prices quoted can be made any length up to 23 inches in back, displays single-breasted fronts that have a fly closing. It is loosely-fitted both in the front and at the back, where slits are allowed at the lower edge of the center-back seams, with buttons utilized for the decorative finish. A regulation notched collar is faced with velvet, and the coat sleeves are in harmony with the trimness of the mode. Pockets that are concealed by flaps are inserted at the sides, and tailor stitching gives a neat finish.

849.—The picturesque outline of the quaint Empire designs is one of fashion's latest caprices, and this elegant coat embodies this short-waisted effect with gratifying result. In taffeta, peau de soie or moiré, it is truly a wrap of extreme beauty.

The Coat is shaped with a watteau plait in the back, and is in plaited effect at the sides and in front, where a vest is simulated at the center with fancy garniture. Appliqué elaborates the wide collar which is made of the material, and the girdle and elbow cuffs are edged with plaitings of silk. The coat is uniquely adorned, as shown in the illustration, with ornaments made of the same plaited silk in the form of buttons. The mode, for the prices quoted, can be made in any length up to 45 inches in back. We make this garment without a lining.

850.—Women disposed to outdoor life will applaud the virtues of this mannish top coat, which proclaims its usefulness in the simplicity of its style. Constructed according to the popular box outlines, it savors strongly of masculine attire, and is especially desirable for traveling and serviceable wear.

The Coat, which is of the regulation cut, is loose-fitting all around and square in shaping. The fronts are single-breasted, and a fly closing is used. The stylish masculine suggestion is afforded by the notched collar which is inlaid with velvet to produce a pleasing contrast. Buttons adorn the cuffs, and welt-finished flaps cover the pockets, which are inserted at the sides. For the prices quoted it can be made in any length up to 42 inches in back. 851.—Every woman should possess one of these stylishly made silk coats, for one cannot afford to ignore their desirability. Peau de soie, taffeta and moiré are adaptable to this fetching design, and the collar furnishes the required elaboration.

The Coat is plaited both at the back and in front, as illustrated, a yoke being utilized at the top, and for the prices quoted, it can be made in any length up to 27 inches in back. The sleeves conform to the latest shaping, with sufficient fulness to warrant ease in wearing, and turnback cuffs complete the wrists. The salient point of interest is the wide Puritan collar, which emphasizes the breadth of the shoulders in the approved manner. It is made of the same material and fancified with appliqué and embroidery, producing a highly ornate effect. The coat is unlined.

852.—A separate jacket is an absolute necessity as many occasions arise that preclude the wearing of a regulation tailor suit. This highly tailored garment, combined with one of our handsome skirts, would make a very attractive costume.

The Jacket exhibits a tight-fitting back, and the single-breasted fronts close with a fly and are in half tight-fitting style. Above the closing a notched collar of the orthodox shape is adopted, and plain coat sleeves, amply full so as to insure freedom in donning, are used. Straps of the material aid in the decorative device, which is complemented with tailor stitching.

853.—A silk coat is generally regarded as a wrap of luxury, but our special inducements place it no longer among the unattainable. For fashionable purposes there is nothing that can quite supersede a coat of this quality, and we suggest, for the benefit of those in doubt, that for these wraps moiré is the latest caprice. Peau de soie and taffeta are also advised.

This Coat, which, for the prices quoted, can be made in any length up to 36 inches in back, is accordion-plaited in effect, with the plaits depending from a fitted yoke at the top. The wide, fancifully shaped collar is of net richly embellished with decorations of appliqué, and the three-quarter length sleeves, which display deep turnback cuffs, may be had in elbow or full length, according to individual taste. No lining is used.

854.—The conservative character of this handsome silk coat will strongly appeal to women of quiet taste, as it is a wrap that will grace any assemblage and invest its wearer with refined style. As a garment to be worn for dress in general, it would be highly satisfactory in peau de soie, taffeta or moiré.

The Coat displays a yoke at the top, from which box-plaits depend all around, and it can be made any desired length up to 36 inches in back for the prices quoted. The lower edge of the coat is trimmed with straps of the material applied horizontally, and an attractive idea is manifested in the embellishment of the wide, irregularly shaped collar, for which narrow plaitings of the material and braid are used, the deep turnback cuffs being ornamented to accord. Elbow sleeves may be substituted, if preferred. There is no lining in the coat.

For informal street wear it will be found highly convenient, and, if desired, a skirt to match could be worn with it, producing a complete tailor costume.

The Jacket is tight-fitting, and the fronts are single-breasted, fastening at the center, but, if preferred, a fly closing may be substituted. Lapped seams vary the plainness of the mode. The collar is in imitation of men's coat collars, being notched, and welted flaps are applied at the sides to conceal the openings to the pockets.

856.—The vogue of the high-girdled skirts and exaggerated belts has created the need of jaunty bolero coats or jackets, and this particular design is one of exceeding beauty that may be detailed to elegant wear, with harmonizing or contrasting skirts.

The Jacket, which is of the picturesque "Bridge Coat" order, is in short, graceful length, and plaited all around, the scalloped outline of the single-breasted fronts suggesting a yoke at the top. The sleeves are in the popular short length, with Directoire cuffs, fancified by lace frills, and these accessories, including the shawl collar and vest, may be made of white or black silk, satin or moiré, decorated with fancy braid. If preferred, long sleeves with corresponding wrist completion may be had. There is no lining used in the coat.

860.—For general dress purposes a silk wrap is a necessity, for not alone do these luxurious garments afford sufficient warmth, but they transform the appearance of the most ordinary costume into one of recognized beauty. This artistic model is exquisitely fashioned and is most adaptable to taffeta, peau de soie and moiré.

The Blouse is single-breasted, with the fronts drooping slightly over the wide Directoire girdle completed with a buckle, and a peplum is added for variety. Both the fronts and the back are pin-tucked in clusters, to correspond with the sleeves, and silk motifs supply a rich decoration, fancy garniture being applied to the vest. The wide shawl collar is elaborated with handsome silk embroidery, and the sleeves display the new bell cuffs headed by strap bands, with filmy lace frills as a finish. Appropriate silk materials available for its making are taffeta, peau de soie and moiré, any of which may be ordered for its reproduction.

The Coat is constructed on graceful flowing lines and shows a pretty arrangement of plaits both back and front. It is made with a yoke at the top which is concealed by a generously exaggerated collar that is embroidered and edged with lace, as shown in the illustration. The sleeves have ample fulness, allowing freedom and ease, and at the wrists irregularly shaped flare cuffs are utilized. This modish coat is richly trimmed, as pictured, and words can only feebly express its beauty and originality.

The Coat can be made in any length up to 36 inches in the back for the prices quoted, and it is loose-fitting in front and at the back, being decorated with straps of the material that extend around the lower edge. The embellishment consists of straps of the same material, and box-plaited ruchings of the goods that enhance the appearance of the collarless neck and continue down the fronts; frills of the same fabric lengthen the sleeves which are completed with flare cuffs of the regular order. 868.—Single-breasted designs are eminently becoming to women in general, as the insinuation of long lines tend to accentuate slenderness and height. Fashioned after the latest importations, this tourist or rain coat proclaims its individuality.

The Coat is shaped with a semi-fitted fly front in single-breasted style. The loose-fitting back is held in at the waist line by a strap belt that terminates at the sides. Unique straps of the material ornament the fronts, concealing the openings to pockets at the sides, and strappings outline the seams at the back in tailor effect. Fashionable adjuncts are the fanciful collar and cuffs, which may be faced with silk or satin in black, or any preferred color, and show a decorative finish of buttons. No lining is used in this coat.

869.—Lapped seams characterize this trim English rain coat, which is so constructed as to do duty as an ulster or traveling coat. As a garment of utility in general, it is incomparable, and for the promenade or drive, it will serve as a delightful wrap.

The Coat affords protection and warmth in its double-breasted fronts that close with buttons and buttonholes, and it is loosely-fitted, with a belt extending across the back and sides, as pictured. Lapped seams are a feature of the front, and buttons contribute to the decoration. The back displays lapped seams, to accord with the treatment of the fronts, and the narrow shawl collar is strapped, and the cuffs to harmonize are also effectively trimmed with soutache braid, as the necessary contrast. There is no lining employed.

STYLE 870
($7.00 UP)

870—Distinctly mannish is this immaculately tailored box coat, its chief beauty being constituted in its severe appearance. The generous shaping renders it a garment of utmost comfort, and its perceptible protective qualities suggest it for wear as a tourist coat, or for a rain coat, as emergency demands.

The Coat is simply made, and is loose-fitting at the back, while the double-breasted fronts lap and close visibly with buttons and buttonholes. In direct copy of masculine top-garments, a wide notched collar is employed at the neck; pockets are inserted at the sides, with welted flaps above them. The sleeves are of ample dimensions, and are gathered in at the wrists under regularly shaped turnback cuffs, and machine stitching is freely used to produce the high tailor finish. The coat is unlined.

871.—Plaits give an elaborate effect to this original design, which is not alone eminently serviceable in a development of taffeta, because of its dust-shedding properties, but it is transformed into an elegant wrap that may do duty for traveling, or be used simply as a protection for the dress worn underneath.

The Coat is plaited in the back, where a wide watteau plait is simulated at the center, and plaits redeem the plainness of the double-breasted fronts that close with cord loops and buttons. The mode is collarless, and a wide strap of the material edges the neck and is extended down the front. Flare cuffs, finished with tailor stitching, furnish wrist completion to the coat sleeves, and a belt encircles the waist, trimly confining the fulness. No lining is employed.

872.—Original suggestions in collars vary many of the season's newest creations, and a novelty collar is exhibited as the prominent feature of this graceful tourist or rain coat. Both comfort and utility are stylishly combined in this garment, and it is an appreciable wrap in stormy or dusty weather. For the woman who cannot afford an evening coat, it is a sensible substitute.

The Coat is fancified with tucks in the back, the fronts being tucked to accord, and closed in double-breasted style with buttons and cord loops. A roll collar in irregular outline is arranged at the neck, and lapped seams provide a neat finish. A narrow belt is a chic adjunct, which follows the sloping line of the waist, and the sleeves, which are of the required fulness, terminate with turnback cuffs of the customary shaping. There is no lining used.

873.—Many of the exclusive tourist or rain coats may readily be mistaken for a complete street suit, so perfect is their development. This stylish construction is suggested for distinctive wear, and it is admirable for traveling, as its shaping insures ease and comfort.

The Coat, which is double-breasted, is plaited at the back and in front, and a belt draws in the fulness at the waist line. Above the closing, which is made with buttons and buttonholes, a Tuxedo collar is adopted, and braid ornaments it and also the turnback cuffs, which complete the tucked sleeves. A highly tailored appearance is secured by a free use of machine stitching. The garment will be made unlined.

874.—The severe appearance of this attractive tourist or rain coat commends it to those who desire a protective wrap that will at all times be correct as to shaping and cut. Whether utilized for a traveling ulster, or detailed to stormy weather usage, this coat will give thorough satisfaction.

The Coat is made with broad plaits both at the front and in the back, which extend over the top of the sleeves in the familiar Gibson effect, and a belt is utilized at the waist line to give it snug adjustment. A flatly applied collar offers variation at the neck, and the sleeves and cuffs are of the accepted order. Buttons and cord loops are employed as the closing of the double-breasted fronts. The entire garment will be made without a lining.

875.—A yoke in pointed outline distinguishes this neat tourist coat, and various other requisites of capricious fashion are faithfully reproduced. The design is also appropriate for wear as a rain coat, and comfort is assured by its shaping.

The Coat displays a yoke in front and at the back, and plaits that extend to the lower edge are formed below, thus emphasizing the long symmetrical lines of the garment. A belt secures the fulness at the waist line, and cord loops and buttons are utilized for the closing, the fronts lapping in double-breasted fashion. The collar is flatly applied, and cuffs of the conventional shaping afford a stylish completion for the full coat sleeves. We make this coat without a lining.

STYLE 876
($9 00 UP)

876.—A simulated front yoke distinguishes this natty tourist or rain coat, and in every detail does it proclaim its strict adherence to current fashions. As a garment of dress it is a creditable choice for the woman who desires a model above the ordinary.

The Coat, which closes with a fly, is half-fitting in front, where straps of the material and plaits are introduced, and the semi-fitted back displays a similar arrangement of straps and plaits. The generously shaped sleeves are stitched below the elbow in Duchess style to suggest inverted plaits, and tailor stitching decorates the conservative turn back cuffs and the shawl collar, the straps being stitched to match. A regulation strap belt is a smart adjunct, and buttons ornament the ends, which extend to the sides, as pictured. The entire garment is made without a lining.

877.—The apparent protective qualities of this serviceable tourist coat make it available as a rain coat when such emergencies arise. For the woman who cannot afford an evening coat, it is a serviceable substitute.

The Coat, which fastens in double-breasted style with buttons and buttonholes, is characterized with a loose-fitting front and back, thus insuring perfect ease and freedom when worn over the dress. A belt that extends around the waist line is used, and fashionable neck completion is afforded in the masculine notched collar. Buttons aid in the high tailor finish, which is further emphasized with stitching, which also elaborates the cuffs and straps of the material that decorate the coat. Flaps conceal the openings to pockets. There is no lining used in the coat.

878.—A comfortable ulster is an established necessity, and in general outline it should show a proper conformity to late vogues. All of four designs are advance fashions, and maintain their pretensions to style for several seasons. A stylish exponent of recent English importations is represented here.

The Coat is semi-fitted in front and at the back, and a yoke is suggested by the clever disposition of straps of the material, which also extend lengthwise down the front and back. Buttons and buttonholes are utilized for the double-breasted closing, and wide strap cuffs furnish wrist completion for the full-top coat sleeves. The novel collar is fancified with narrow soutache and buttons, and a strap belt is provided to confine the fulness of the back and sides. The garment will be made unlined.

STYLE 879
($10.00 UP)

879.—Every woman delights in the possession of a stylish storm-proof tourist coat that can be utilized as a rain coat when occasions arise. This garment combines all these requisites in its make-up, and will be found very serviceable.

The Coat is semi-fitted in the back, also in the front where the closing is made in double-breasted fashion with buttons and buttonholes. Straps of the material and unique overlaps, decorated with buttons, impart a stylish aspect to both the front and the back and a strap belt that terminates at the sides is in keeping with current styles. The fancy collar and cuffs may be trimmed with silk, satin or moiré, in black, or any preferred color, decorated with braid. Machine stitching supplies a tailor finish to the coat, the sleeves of which are tucked below the elbow. There is no lining employed.

STYLE 880
($9.00 UP)

880.—Absolute freedom and ease in connection with the ultra-fashionable essentials that mark exclusive designs are assured in this modish rain coat. Developed of material that is impervious to moisture, and at the same time dust-shedding, a garment of this order becomes indispensable.

The Coat is distinguished with plaits and lapped seams at the back and also in front where a fly closing is adopted. The fronts and the back are half tight-fitting and a belt is called into requisition to hold in the fulness at the waist line, as pictured. Round tabs vary the severity of the shawl collar, and braid contributes to the decoration, with a finish supplied in machine stitching and buttons. The sleeves are of comfortable dimension, with flare cuffs. No lining is used in this coat.

STYLE 881
($8.50 UP)

881.—It is an old-fashioned fallacy to consider the modern rain coat limited to service in vigorous weather only, for nowadays these wraps are of such elegant construction as to make them available for evening or day wear, as one sees fit. Diversity in style is always welcome, which, in this case, is afforded by its long lines.

The Coat adheres to the loose-fitting modes, and is single-breasted, with a fly closing. Straps of the material trim the back and front, prettily emphasizing the long lines so necessary to a graceful appearance, and a notched collar adds a masculine suggestion. The sleeves conform to the latest shaping, and cuffs are simulated with stitching. A narrow strap belt shows the sloping line of the waist. No lining is used in this coat.

1. Neck Measurement.—All around neck, over dress collar, at bottom of collar.....

1 to 2. Length front from collar seam to natural waist line.....
Do not allow for dip. (Read "NOTE" below.)

2. Measure from center of waist line in front up around bottom of collar seam in back and return to center of waist line in front, as shown by heavy line in diagram.....

3. Bust measure all around body, well up under arms, over largest part of bust, not too tight.....
(Do not allow tape measure to slip down in back.)
(If your bust measure is 42 inches or more, there will be an extra charge of 10 per cent. See paragraph 17, page 3.)

4. Around largest part of arm, closely but not too tight.....
(Make no allowance for fulness in sleeves; we will do that.)

5. Measurement around armhole, well up on shoulder, not tight.....

6 to 7. Length of sleeve, inside seam.....
(Give full length of sleeve as shown on the diagram above. We will make the necessary allowance if a short sleeve is wanted.)

8 to 9. Length under arm from armhole seam to natural waist line.....

14. Hip measure, all around body six inches below waist line, not tight.....
(Do not allow tape measure to slip up or down when taking this measurement.)

Do you wish long or short sleeves?.....

What Length Jacket?.....
Take this measurement from the collar seam in the back to the length desired. If you wish the jacket made longer than stated in its description, there will be a reasonable charge for the extra length, as per schedule on page 3, paragraph 18.

Jacket Lining Desired.....
If the jacket you order is described with a lining, state whether you wish Super-finished Sateen, Good Quality Satin, Taffeta Silk or our Best Satin, which is Skinner's.
Super-finished Sateen is a strong and reliable lining, but not as fine as silk or satin. There is an extra charge for lining with silk or satin, as stated at the end of each description of tailor-made Suits and Jackets.
Most of our customers prefer a silk or satin lining, the extra expense being very small, and as either of these linings adds much to the appearance of a garment, we strongly recommend them.

OUR TERMS

Most of our customers prefer to send the full amount with their order, because we then prepay the express charges on any garment ordered from this catalogue to any part of the United States.

If you wish garments sent C. O. D. we require a deposit of at least one-third, in which case the garments will be sent C. O. D. for the balance, but on such shipments the customer must pay the expressage and also pay the Express Company's charge for sending the money to us. We will not ship C. O. D. without the required deposit.

All orders for points outside of the United States must be fully paid for in advance.
We can accept orders only on these terms.
We do a strictly cash business and carry no charge accounts.

1. — We urge you to carefully examine your order before mailing it, to make sure that the measurements are accurate and that the order is complete in every detail. We require the measurements taken from your figure—not from an old garment. Please read carefully the description of the garment you order.

2. — In our endeavor to fill orders in one week, we usually start to make the garment the same day the order is received; therefore we cannot always comply with requests sent later to have changes made.

3. — Do not fail to attach samples of your selections in the spaces provided for them above. You can help us fill your order promptly, if you will make two selections of material, so that if the first should be sold out we can make the garment from your second choice. Do not make a second selection of material unless you are willing that we should use it, if necessary. We always use the first selection if we have the material when the order reaches us.

4. — BLACK AND MOURNING GARMENTS.—In ordering a black garment, it is always advisable to mention whether it is to be lined and trimmed with black or not. When ordering a garment for mourning or second mourning wear, kindly state this fact distinctly, so that we may use the proper linings and trimmings.

Do you wish long or short sleeves?.....

What Length Jacket?.....
Take this measurement from the collar seam in the back to the length desired. If you wish the jacket made longer than stated in its description, there will be a reasonable charge for the extra length, as per schedule on page 3, paragraph 18.

Jacket Lining Desired.....
If the jacket you order is described with a lining, state whether you wish Super-finished Sateen, Good Quality Satin, Taffeta Silk or our Best Satin, which is Skinner's.
Super-finished Sateen is a strong and reliable lining, but not as fine as silk or satin. There is an extra charge for lining with silk or satin, as stated at the end of each description of tailor-made Suits and Jackets.
Most of our customers prefer a silk or satin lining, the extra expense being very small, and as either of these linings adds much to the appearance of a garment, we strongly recommend them.

OUR TERMS

Most of our customers prefer to send the full amount with their order, because we then prepay the express charges on any garment ordered from this catalogue to any part of the United States.

If you wish garments sent C. O. D. we require a deposit of at least one-third, in which case the garments will be sent C. O. D. for the balance, but on such shipments the customer must pay the expressage and also pay the Express Company's charge for sending the money to us. We will not ship C. O. D. without the required deposit.

All orders for points outside of the United States must be fully paid for in advance.
We can accept orders only on these terms.
We do a strictly cash business and carry no charge accounts.

1. — We urge you to carefully examine your order before mailing it, to make sure that the measurements are accurate and that the order is complete in every detail. We require the measurements taken from your figure—not from an old garment. Please read carefully the description of the garment you order.

2. — In our endeavor to fill orders in one week, we usually start to make the garment the same day the order is received; therefore we cannot always comply with requests sent later to have changes made.

3. — Do not fail to attach samples of your selections in the spaces provided for them above. You can help us fill your order promptly, if you will make two selections of material, so that if the first should be sold out we can make the garment from your second choice. Do not make a second selection of material unless you are willing that we should use it, if necessary. We always use the first selection if we have the material when the order reaches us.

4. — BLACK AND MOURNING GARMENTS.—In ordering a black garment, it is always advisable to mention whether it is to be lined and trimmed with black or not. When ordering a garment for mourning or second mourning wear, kindly state this fact distinctly, so that we may use the proper linings and trimmings.
